Geneva—Where 'They' Meet—

Geneva, where diplomats of four powers are meeting, is the third largest city in Switzerland. Its population is about 160,000.

It lies in the extreme southwestern tip of the country. It is situated by the lake, where the waters rush to form the Rhone River and send it on its long and beautiful journey through the mountain passes and the plains of France to the Mediterranean.

Geneva is an ancient city. The Romans were there for 500 years (58 B.C. to 443 A.D.). When their legions first reached the lake they battled primitive tribesmen to take the highest slope commanding the shore.

A long and bitter struggle between the Bishops of Geneva and the House of Savoy, from which came so many kings and so much intrigue, endured for more than 200 years. All the while the merchant class attended thriftily to its own business. It waxed rich while the clerical and House of Savoy forces plotted and fought.

It was weariness with this struggle which caused Geneva so fervently to embrace the Reformation. Its emotional strength swept the city beginning in 1532. Three years later the church and state were separated and the bishops divested of power.

Calvin

No person left so much a stamp on the city as John Calvin, one of the great leaders of the Reformation. As a young man in Picardy, Calvin's parents had first trained him for the priesthood, then for law. At 22, he threw himself into the Reformation. He soon found himself an exile from persecution.

In 1536, already recognized as a leader of the French Huguenots, he came to Geneva. He remained to teach theology at the university. It was a time of disorder and near chaos. Calvin rallied the city and became its official spiritual and temporal leader. His rule was one of great austerity. Life was without worldliness and gaiety, and predestined.

But even Calvin's most pitiless critics admit he did much for the city, making it strong and great. He might think laughter and merriment not entirely to God's liking, but he believed in free education.

There was attracted to Geneva throng after throng of persons from many countries fleeing religious persecution. All found havens there. Great scholars from many lands came to the university. It became a very real citadel of French learning.

For more than a century the refugees came, bringing with them their skills and industry. Since the 16th century Geneva has been one of the world's great centers of watch-making, of jewelry, cameras, precision instruments, silks, laces, chocolates, china and all the many items produced by a concentration of craftsmen.

Revolutionary France took over the city in 1798 and she remained French until 1814. In the great treaty of that year, the Congress of Vienna, the city and its district were admitted to the Swiss Confederation as "Canton and Republic of Geneva."

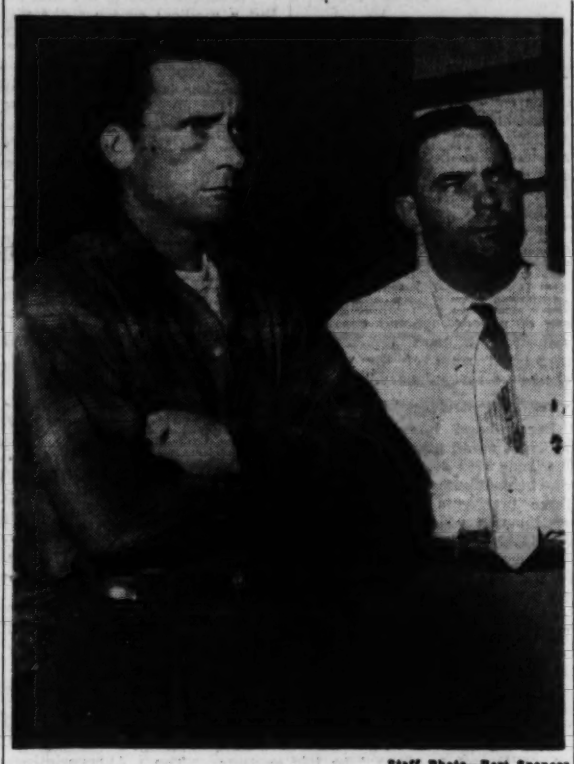

International

It has always been an international city—being early made up of refugees. But in 1864 it became international in its present meaning. The treaty creating the Red Cross was signed there by representatives of 16 nations.

In 1872 a Geneva Court of Arbitration settled the dispute between Great Britain and the United States over the Confederate cruiser, the Alabama.

Escaping from Liverpool Harbor in 1862, the Alabama was outfitted in the Azores. She began a cruise which took her from one end of the Atlantic to the other, and around the Cape of Good Hope into the Indian Ocean. She destroyed 58 vessels before being sunk by the ironclad Kearsage. The Geneva Court of Arbitration found Great Britain guilty of neglect as a neutral power and fixed payment of $15,500,000.

The League of Nations established its site in Geneva in 1920. Since then many international meetings have been held there. The latest was one on Indochina. Now they meet "at the summit."

COCHRAN HEARS SENTENCE OF DEATH

Cochran Gets the Chair In Rome Girl's Slaying

By BERT SPENCER
Constitution Staff Writer

CARTERSVILLE, July 15—Willie Grady Cochran was sentenced to die in the electric chair Aug. 26 after a Bartow County jury found him guilty today of the murder of a 14-year-old Rome girl.

The jury was out 40 minutes after Judge J. H. Paschall chargrd it.

The verdict came at 5:25 p.m.

Cochran, a 37-year-old paroled sex criminal, showed an expressionless face as the verdict was read and as he stood before the judge to hear sentence pronounced.

The condemned killer was immediately taken away by state patrolmen. Bartow Sheriff Frank Atwood said he would be taken to Fulton Tower in Atlanta and from there "immediately" to Reidsville Prison to await execution.

GIRL'S KIN THERE

The father and stepfather of Cochran's young victim were in the courtroom during the entire trial. The father broke down as Sol. Irwin Mitchell was exhibiting to the jury the clothing and heavy weights the girl's body bore when it was taken from the Etowah River June 25. They both had appeared composed up until then.

Cochran's brother-in-law came and spoke a few words to him late this morning.

"Tell them not to worry," Cochran was heard to say.

Cochran made no statement to the court during the two-day trial.

After a plea of insanity was denied by a previous jury Thursday, defense attorneys made little attempt to tear down the state's story of Cochran's kidnaping, assaulting and slaying of the teenager.

Instead, they reiterated their argument that the defendant was insane and not responsible for his actions at the time of the murder.

INDICATE APPEAL

Court appointed defense attorneys Jere White and Marion Corbett, who moved for a mistrial several times during the proceedings, indicated they would seek an appeal of the verdict.

Chief witnesses who were brought to the stand by Mitchell earlier in the day included various officers who testified that Cochran had freely and voluntarily admitted slaying the girl.

The state rested its case at

U.S. Court Defied in Slay Case

The Georgia Supreme Court, declaring that it "will not supinely surrender sovereign powers of this state" to the federal government, Friday refused to recognize U.S. Supreme Court jurisdiction in litigation involving an Atlanta murder case.

The court reaffirmed its decision not to grant a new trial to Aubrey Lee Williams, a Negro who was convicted on March 10, 1953, of murdering Atlanta liquor store manager Harry Furst.

Williams was convicted in Fulton Superior Court and sentenced by Judge E. E. Andrews. He was denied a new trial by the Fulton court and the Georgia Supreme Court and subsequently appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The U.S. court, indicating it believed Williams, because of his race, did not receive equal treatment under the law, remanded the case to Georgia's highest court for further action—it neither reversed nor affirmed the conviction.

In Friday's statement, the Georgia court said the U. S. tribunal apparently concluded that the trial judge did not make the right decision in denying Williams a new trial. But the Georgia court, with all justices agreeing, said it recognizes no federal jurisdiction in the case. It said its original decision still stands.

The U.S. Supreme Court's decision included dissents by Justices Reed, Minton and Clark, who also said they regard the case as "a matter wholly for the Georgia courts."

Aside from the jurisdictional wrangle, the case involved use of juror slips of different colors for white and Negro jurors in Fulton Superior Court.

Williams' attorneys did not contend at the time that there had been discrimination.

Wives Urge Helmets for Cycle Squad

The idea grew out of a discussion among policemen's wives following the fatal injury last Saturday of Ptl. Clyde Ellsberry when he attempted to halt two escaped convicts.

Traffic Supt. T. J. Sikes said he would study the proposal and take it up with Chief Herbert Jenkins who is out of town for the weekend.

Ellsberry was knocked from his motorcycle when the escapees cut into his machine with a station wagon. He died at Grady Hospital of head injuries.

"Everyone of us realizes that except for the hands of fate it might have been our husband," one wife said.

"A crash helmet might not save them always, but race drivers and stunt drivers find it profitable to wear them.

"Our men might not look as well in crash helmets as they do in cloth caps. But we aren't worried about that. We want them to come home to us."

Fulton Jurors Charge Murder

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Two DeKalb County convicts were indicted on two counts of murder each Friday in connection with the deaths of two Atlantans.

The Fulton County Grand Jury charged Luther Masters, 33, and Harry Lewis Nelson, 27, with murder in the July 9 deaths of Atlanta Ptl. Clyde L. Ellsberry, 27, and Johnny Howell, 17, both of whom were run down by an escape vehicle.

Nelson also was indicted on a charge of larceny of an automobile in the theft of a truck. Police said he took the truck after a prison camp station wagon in which he and Masters were fleeing was wrecked.

STATION WAGON

The murder indictment charged that the station wagon occupied by Masters and Nelson was a "weapon likely to produce death," and that the pair "made an assault" with the station wagon upon the youth and the policeman.

The separate indictments said the assault was made "with malice aforethought," and caused Howell and Ellsberry "to be knocked to the ground and pavement," thereby giving them mortal wounds from which they died.

The youth was riding a motor scooter on an errand when the fleeing convicts ran him down. The patrolman was run down on his motorcycle as he attempted to halt the station wagon.

STATE PENAL CHARGES

Meanwhile, J. B. Hatchett, assistant director of the State Department of Corrections, has charged that Masters and Nelson had more freedom than normal trusties at the DeKalb County prison camp.

Hatchett said that although both prisoners had bad escape records, they were allowed outside the prison compound without supervision to run a county-owned filling station.

The penal chief added he is continuing an investigation at the DeKalb camp to find out who was responsible for "favoritism" to the two prisoners.

Ike Flies to Big 4 Talks, Foreseeing Era of Amity If Russians Are Sincere

PRESIDENT, WIFE AND SON TAKE OFF FOR "SUMMIT" TALKS
Ike Waves Homburg as Mrs. Eisenhower, Maj. John Smile

Hopes To End Long Period Of Distrust

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — President Eisenhower took off for the Big Four conference tonight, declaring there will be "no trouble" with the men in the Kremlin if they really mean their words of "conciliation and toleration and understanding."

The chief executive made the qualified forecast in a dramatic TV-radio address shortly before his plane, Columbine III, left the ground and headed eastward through the night for Eisenhower's potentially fateful meeting with the leaders of Russia, Britain and France.

HOPEFUL PROSPECT

In the broadcast he declared that if a 10-year-old spirit of mutual distrust can be lifted at Geneva, then "we will have taken the greatest step toward peace, toward future prosperity and tranquillity that has ever been taken in all the history of mankind."

The President, with his wife and son accompanying him, took off from Military Air Transport Service Airport at 9:18 p.m. EDT.

Only a few minutes before he had ended his broadcast with a plea for every American to pray in church next Sabbath for success of the Big Four conference—for an end to the threat of the "terrible scourge" of war.

CHEERED ON LEAVING

All along the route from the White House to the airport, people leaned from automobiles and waved. At the White House gate a knot of bystanders had cheered as Eisenhower's limousine shot by—the ceiling dome light flicked on by the President, adding luster to his grin.

At the airport, a queue of foreign diplomats—some in formal dress—greeted the President and wished him Godspeed.

Behind a guard of honor and a chain fence stood perhaps 200 excited people. They cheered, waved and oohed—particularly when Nicaraguan Ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa presented Mrs. Eisenhower with a huge orchid.

Eisenhower was in a jovial mood,

S.C. District Ordered To Mix Schools

COLUMBIA, S.C., July 15 (AP)—A three-judge federal court ordered Summerton School district trustees today to proceed "with all deliberate speed" to operate on a racially nonsegregated basis. No time limit was set.

The order enjoined the trustees from refusing on account of race to admit any child to any school "from and after such time as they may have made the necessary arrangements" for operating desegregated schools.

Judge John J. Parker, senior member of the court, said prior to issuance of the order that it might take a few months or even one year for the trustees to work out arrangements. He said the court will retain jurisdiction of the case to check on what the trustees do.

If the trustees act in good faith, he said, "no one need have any fear" of being in contempt of court. He made the statement after Charleston Attorney Robert McC. Figg said the trustees would be in constant danger of being cited for contempt if the decree were "no clearer" on the amount of time allowed. "I assume the trustees are going to obey," Judge Parker said.

The trustees previously had announced they will close the schools rather than mix white and Negro pupils.

Judge Parker emphasized that "this court cannot get itself into an attitude of trying to run a school."

"All the court can do," he said, "is to direct observance of constitutional provisions. Operation of the school is up to the trustees."

It was the first hearing in a graded school segregation case since the May 31 Supreme Court decree for an end to segregation as soon as practicable. The case, one of five in which the Supreme Court held that racially segregated schools are unconstitutional, was before the three-judge court for action in line with the decision and subsequent decree.

The three-judge court ruled

Bulganin Asserts Big 4 'Can and Must' Agree

By WELLES HANGEN
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

MOSCOW, July 15—Premier Nikolai Bulganin declared today on the eve of his departure for Geneva that the Big Four heads of government "can and must" resolve major international disputes at the conference opening Monday.

He addressed about 65 foreign and Soviet newsmen in the Kremlin at the first conference ever given by a head of the Soviet regime.

Flanked by Nikita S. Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist Party; Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov; Marshal Georgi Zhukov, minister of defense and Adrei A. Gromyko, first deputy foreign minister, Bulganin read a prepared statement in Russian.

As soon as it had been translated into English Bulganin and his colleagues strode briskly from the conference room without allowing the correspondents to ask questions.

The premier's declaration was general and couched in conciliatory language. It contained only one critical reference to Western policy.

"If all participants at the conference show good will," Bulganin said "and if they sincerely strive to reach agreement we shall undoubtedly be able to find a common language and chart effective methods for effective settlement of the most important problems on which peace and the well-being of peoples depends."

Quoting a familiar Russian proverb, "Even a bad peace is better than a good quarrel," he added:

"If we exert all efforts and achieve not a bad peace but a good and genuine peace then millions of people in all countries will breathe a sigh of relief."

It would be "naive" to believe the Geneva meeting could solve all complex international issues, Bulganin declared. Although

Taylor Hints Troop Slash In Far East

QUANTICO, Va., July 15 (AP)—The United States may pull still more fighting men out of the Far East.

The hint of another cutback in military strength along the eastern perimeter of the Communist domain came today from Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, new Army chief of staff and until recently the supreme Allied commander in the Far East.

Taylor, in a talk to the 170 civilian leaders, generals and admirals here for the annual defense secretaries' conference, discussed the impact "of future planned reduction in forces" in Japan and Korea. A brief summary of what Taylor talked about was issued after the closed-door meeting.

There seemed reason to believe that any new reduction in Far East strength would be in ground forces, possibly the withdrawal of one or more divisions.

At peak strength during the Korean War, the United States had about eight Army and one Marine division in the area. The manpower of those divisions, together with those of air and naval forces and noncombat units, totaled more than half a million men.

Today the total manpower is about 250,000, with three divisions and two regimental combat teams in Korea, Japan and Okinawa.

Taylor said reductions in U.S. forces made necessary "major tactical and logistical adjustments."

Warm Weekend, Rain Predicted

If you're planing any weekend outings you'd better keep your rainy weather gear close by.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicts more afternoon showers both Saturday and Sunday. Temperatures will hover close to the 90 mark both days.

Saturday the mercury should rise from a low of 68 to a high of 88. Sunday may be somewhat warmer with temperatures ranging between 70 and the high 80s.

Friday's extremes were 67 and 90.

17 Killed, 65 Hurt as Rioters Battle With Guns and Fire in Casablanca

CASABLANCA, Morocco, July 15 (AP)—Moroccan and European mobs went on a rampage and took over the European quarter of this bustling port city for 12 hours today.

Official figures showed 17 persons were killed and 65 wounded in a day and night of riot action and a bombing by nationalist terrorists which triggered the tempers of enraged Frenchmen.

Order was finally restored tonight with enforcement of a 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew in the terror-ridden city, which for months has been kept tense by independence-seeking nationalists.

The rioting was confined to the European quarter where 250,000 Europeans, mostly French, work and live in this business capital of the French protectorate.

In the early stages Europeans were the only participants as they vented their anger toward the new resident general, Gilbert Grandval, and other Frenchmen who have shown moderation and sympathy toward nationalist aims.

A crowd of 5,000 to 10,000 marched upon the regional administrative offices demanding Grandval's resignation, and was only dispersed after police had fired 10 to 15 tear gas bombs. The mob retaliated by stoning the offices and police.

The crowd looted Moroccan shops and set some of them afire. It overturned Moroccan buses and burned them.

Late in the day groups of several hundred Moroccans poured out of the native quarter and clashed with bands of Europeans. More than 100 shots were heard from both sides.

But police kept most of the gathering thousands of Moroccans from invading the European section. In their brief rampage the Moroccans in turn looted European shops and broke windows in cars.

In the melee two Moroccans were killed by pistol and machine gun bullets and another was beaten to death in the heart of the city.

Cache of Saw Blades Found; Jail Visits Cut

A cache of hacksaw blades, apparently smuggled to prisoners by visitors, was discovered Friday in a second-floor cell at Fulton County jail.

Sheriff T. Ralph Grimes said the blades were located in the ceiling of a maximum-security cell where 26 prisoners twice attempted jailbreaks early Thursday.

As a result, the sheriff removed all prisoners from the east wing of the jail's second floor, ordered shorter visiting hours beginning Saturday and searching of all visitors for smuggled articles.

"In the future all visitors are to be searched, and if they refuse to be searched, they won't be allowed in the jail," the sheriff declared.

In curtailing visiting hours, the sheriff said each visitor is to be allowed in the jail only 30 minutes each visiting day. Visiting hours are from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday for Negro inmates, and during the same hours Sunday for white prisoners.

Meanwhile, the sheriff revealed another mass jailbreak from cells on the second and third floors of the west wing had been thwarted about 8 p.m. Saturday, July 2.

Prisoners had cut screens off windows on both floors, and had sawed through one window bar and half sawed through another bar, the sheriff said. The attempt was halted when a deputy caught the prisoners in the act of sawing at the bars.

Arms Limit Opening Expected at Geneva

West Plans Completed; First Meeting Monday

PARIS, July 15 (AP)—Western Big Three foreign ministers completed their plans today for the summit meeting with the Russians, confident the sessions can open the way to new talks on reunifying Germany and limiting the world's arms.

A feeling was manifest that progress by the Big Four next week in Geneva will be more a matter of spirit and atmosphere than of formal agreements. In fact, the Western Powers are not going there with any drafts of formal agreements in their briefcases. The Russians, however, may turn up with some.

FIRST MEETING MONDAY

President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden and Premier Faure and Premier Bulganin will have their first meeting Monday. The expectation is that there will be a series of orders by the end of the week to their foreign ministers to develop specific agreements on:

1. Unifying Communist East Germany and anti-Communist West Germany through free elections.

2. Security arrangements in Europe that will make both Communist and anti-Communist countries feel safe—perhaps by taking up West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's suggestion that a reunified Germany should seek no more than the 12 army divisions to which he is now limited.

3. Global armament limitation—maybe with some new suggestions to the United Nations subcommittee which has been working on the problem.

PLANS APPROVED

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay met for more than two hours today. They approved, with slight modifications the plans their experts have been laying for two months. Then the ministers went over and showed it to Premier Faure, the only one of the Big Four now in Paris.

No official account was available of the agreed texts, but these points about them emerged from talks with persons familiar with them:

1. There is no plan to talk about Indochina or other Far Eastern questions unless the Russians bring them up.

NO SPECIFIC PACTS

2. No specific pacts are to be proposed by the West at this stage.

3. The main topic dealt with is the intertwined one of how to create a reunified Germany that will not look to Europeans like a potential cause of World War III.

4. The way will be left wide open to talk about all sorts of matters that any of the four countries may individually want to bring up. The Russians for example, are expected to raise their topics of "Western war propaganda" and "threatening American bases." The United States will want to talk about freedom for the Soviet Satillites and the activities of international communism. The French will undoubtedly want to put forward their idea for using some of the world's military budgets to help poorer nations—an idea previously suggested by the United States and India.

Eden Lauds Peace Plea Of Einstein

LONDON, Saturday, July 16 (AP)—Prime Minister Eden today welcomed the appeal for abolition of war signed by nine noted scientists, including the late Albert Einstein, and promised to work toward that goal at the Geneva "summit" parley opening Monday.

Eden, who flies to Geneva tomorrow, received a copy of the appeal from one of the signers, Lord Russell, Nobel Prize-winning philosopher and mathematician, who also sent it to heads of government of the United States, Russia, France, Red China and Canada.

END OF HUMAN RACE

The appeal warned that nuclear war could mean the end of the human race. A similar appeal was signed yesterday at Mainau, Germany, by 18 Nobel Prize-winning scientists attending a conference there.

Replying to Lord Russell, better known as Bertrand Russell, Eden said in a letter made public by No. 10 Downing St.:

"I agree that only the abolition of war can finally remove the perils which threaten the future of mankind.

"I therefore welcome the fact that the statement recognizes that it is war itself and not simply nuclear weapons which must be abolished, and that the renunciation of nuclear weapons must form a part of a general reduction of armaments. This is in full accord with the policy which Her Majesty's governments have consistently followed.

RUSSELL LETTER

"It is my hope that the forthcoming meeting at Geneva we shall by patience and perseverance be able to make progress towards reducing the troubles and easing the tensions which now beset the world."

Lord Russell, in his letter accompanying the appeal, told Eden: ". . . It is my earnest hope that you will give public expression to your opinion as to the problem dealt with in this statement, which is the most serious that has ever confronted the human race."

PAULING ADDED

The 83-year-old peer drafted the appeal in collaboration with Einstein shortly before the latter's death on April 18 at the age of 76.

"Here, then, is the problem which we present to you, stark and dreadful and inescapable," the appeal said: "Shall we put an end to the human race: or shall mankind renounce war?"

Lord Russell made the appeal public a week ago and today he received a telegram from another American Nobel Prize winner asking to be associated with the declaration. He is Prof. Linus Carl Pauling, of the California Institute of Technology, who won the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1954.

Guard Loses Nehru's Cash To a Greeter

New York Times News Service

NEW DELHI, July 15—The arm of welcome that Prime Minister Nehru received Wednesday from New Delhi's citizens turned out to be expensive for the Indian leader. Somebody in that airport crowd had his mind on other things than political enthusiasm.

It developed today that one of the prime minister's bodyguards, a deputy superintendent of police, had his pocket picked by somebody in the mob of several thousand people that broke police lines and surrounded the Indian prime minister. When the bodyguard took stock of his losses he found missing two keys and 176 rupees (about $37). To make things even more embarrassing for the unhappy policeman, the money had been given him by the prime minister for safekeeping.

Bonn Speeds 2 Bills for New Army

BONN, Germany, July 15 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's first military bills for formation of the new 500,000 - man West German army won overwhelming approval today in the Bundestag.

Spurred by Adenauer's plea for a decision before the Geneva Big Four conference, the lower house swiftly approved two bills that:

1. Permit the government to call up the first 6,000 volunteers for the Wehrmacht this year.

2. Set up a permanent civilian committee to screen the appointment of all officers of the rank of colonel and above.

The vote on the "volunteers bill" came on crucial second reading. A final vote is required tomorrow but this is a formality. Approval is certain. Then both bills go to the Bundestrat (upper house) for a final vote next Friday.

Today's Bundestag action virtually insured that West Germany will fulfill Adenauer's pledge to the Western Powers to start buildup this year of a 12-division army, 1,300-plane jet air force and a navy to be integrated into the Atlantic Alliance.

Sec. Talbott's Finances Studied by Senate Panel

By W. H. LAWRENCE
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 15—Harold E. Talbott, secretary of the Air Force, has been called to a closed-door meeting early next week with the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee which is inquiring into his business affairs.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), committee chairman, announced plans for the "conference" in his office today. He said it would be held Monday or Tuesday "whenever it is mutually convenient."

NOT FORMAL SESSION

The Arkansas senator emphasized that the initial session with Talbott will not be a formal executive session, with sworn testimony and interrogation.

"It will be in the nature of a conference in my office at which I will have other members of the subcommittee present," McClellan said.

Talbott came back to Washington today from the Quantico, Va., conference of civilian and military leaders for a two-hour "informal" session with Robert F. Kennedy, subcommittee counsel who has been conducting a preliminary investigation of the Air Force secretary for about three months.

TALBOTT COMMENTS

"I have had a very pleasant meeting with the counsel for the Senate investigations committee this afternoon. He asked for and I have given him all the information he asked for regarding the matter at hand.

"There is enough before the committee of a nature to warrant the committee's making some inquiry about it," the Arkansas Senator declared.

There was some argument today about whether the inquiry now under way is a "full fledged" investigation as was reported by the New York Times this morning.

REPORT DENIED

Sen. George Bender, (R-Ohio) said that "in the interest of accuracy it should be said that the permanent Senate subcommittee on investigation voted no full-fledged inquiry as was reported by one of the important newspapers of the country." Bender said this report caused "an erroneous impression."

Sen. McClellan said the two sessions with Talbot would help to determine whether formal public hearings are necessary in the matter.

At the White House, Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary, was asked whether President Eisenhower was "aware of the Talbot investigation."

"Sure, he reads the papers," Snyder responded.

S.C. Road Deaths Up

COLUMBIA, July 15 (AP)—Thirteen persons were killed and 149 injured in 526 road accidents in South Carolina last week. The state's 1955 death toll now stands at 316, an increase of 32 over the same period last year.

Wilson Drops Secrecy and Releases Ridgway's Slaps at Military Policy

MARINE CORPS BASE, Quantico, Va., July 15—Secretary of Defense Wilson stripped away today the secrecy he had previously imposed on Gen. Ridgeway's profound criticism of the soundness of United States military policy.

He ordered release of the full text of the appraisal of United States and Soviet capabilities and strategic concepts which Ridgway sent him just before his retirement as Army chief of staff on June 30.

Some Defensive Department officials were annoyed because virtually the entire text of the appraisal was published in the New York Times today.

By ANTHONY LEVIERO
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

"I don't think it is very important," said Wilson, characterizing the report to reporters this morning. But it was Wilson who had ordered the Army to place a "confidential" stamp on the non-secret final report dated June 27.

In essence, Ridgway seriously questioned the soundness of the administration's "over-emphasis" on air-nuclear power at the expense of surface forces which he declared were very inadequate for the many commitments the United States has assumed in its free world leadership against Soviet domination.

Ridgway argued that conventional military forces are necessary, and not almost sole reliance on massive atomic retaliation, to meet Communist challenges. He said Soviet Russia has substantial conventional forces and would rely on them, rather than on nuclear weapons, to attain her objectives.

Thus Russia, as he viewed it, is maneuvering the United States into the necessity of using nuclear weapons if it ever becomes necessary to fight. He also foresaw the likelihood that Russia would achieve nuclear parity with the United States in 1958 and 1962, with the capability of inflicting "critical damage" on its war-making potential and nullifying American nuclear-air superiority.

The former chief of staff also declared the United States should treat aggressions by Russian satellites as local wars and fight them to a finish without regard to whether Russia herself might intervene. Thus, he joined the school who supported Gen. MacArthur in the conviction that the Korean War should not have been fought with imposed political restraints, like the order to make no attacks upon Red China's bases behind the Yalu. MacArthur had referred to these as "privileged sanctuaries."

Hotel Worker Held in Death Of Ex-Actress

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—A 21-year-old hotel maintenance man was reported tonight by police to have confessed he strangled 58-year-old Adlyn Woodington, former actress and wardrobe mistress.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Alvin H. Goldstein said the slaying had been admitted by Marion Gailliard, a Negro employed at the Hotel Chesterfield, in the Times Square area, where Miss Woodington lived.

Goldstein said that Gailliard, married and the father of a month-old child, had aroused the suspicion of hotel officials by his behavior after the crime was discovered. Subsequent questioning, Goldstein said, led to Gailliard's arrest and reported confession.

Gailliard, accompanied by his wife, Maggie, was taken to a police station for questioning exactly 24 hours after a maid had discovered the body of Miss Woodington.

Goldstein said Gailliard would be booked on a charge of homicide. Goldstein gave no motive for the crime.

Robbery apparently was not a motive in the slaying of Miss Woodington because her hotel room had not been ransacked.

Peron Says 'New Nation' Completed

Hints Freer Life For Argentines

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 15 (AP)—President Juan D. Peron declared today the Peronista revolution has ended and he is stepping down "as chief of the revolution to become the president of all Argentines, friends and foes." He implied their life will be freer.

In a speech to Peronista party congressmen in the Government House, Peron said: "The Peronista revolution has completed its objectives . . . Now begins a new era of a constructional character without revolutions because the permanent state of the country cannot be revolutionary."

"NEW ARGENTINA"

Peron burst into the political spotlight as an army colonel after the June 1943 revolution and was the behind-the-scenes-power under three presidents before the 1946 elections in which he became th constitutional prsident. But Peron has always characterized his government as the revolutionary rule for a "new Argentina."

Now "my situation has absolutely changed and thus I must return all limitations which have been made in the country on procedures and methods of our foes, imposed by necessity to fulfill objectives, to let them act freely within the law with all guarantees of rights and freedoms," he told the congressmen.

FOES LASH BACK

In a nationwide radio address July 5, Peron called for a political truce. But the opposition parties have retorted that peace cannot be achieved without liberty and a majority of the opposition Radical party leaders have declared the only way to political peace is "to remove those responsible for the totalitarian regime." The Democratic (conservative) party demanded Peron quit his office.

Suzan Ball Reported Better But Lung Cancer Is Feared

HOLLYWOOD, July 15 (AP)—Suzan Ball, suffering a recurrence of cancer which forced the amputation of her right leg 18 months ago, was slightly improved today, doctors reported.

She was resting comfortably at the City of Hope Medical Center in nearby Duarte undergoing a diagnosis.

A source close to her said malignancy has attacked her lungs. But a medical center spokesman emphasized that the diagnosis has not reached a definitive point. Tests should be completed early next week, he added.

Her condition remains serious and no sudden change is expected. She is being given oxygen occasionally.

After surgery Jan. 13, 1954, the plucky Miss Ball quickly learned to use an artificial leg and resumed her screen career. The 21-year-old actress married actor Richard Long, who has been with her almost constantly at the medical center. She was admitted July 5.

She has remained bright and cheerful.

Her troubles began after a fall. Her knee was injured and failed to heal. Cancer of the bone developed.

AEC Fund Slash Perils Atom Program, Ike Says

By ALVIN SHUSTER
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 15 — President Eisenhower warned today that a $140,404,000 cut in Atomic Energy Commission funds jeopardizes work on atomic weapons and hinders development of nuclear propulsion and peaceful uses of atomic energy.

His statement in signing the $1,380,847,000 measure got a prompt response. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, chairman of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, called a meeting next Tuesday, saying "the cuts did go too far." His committee handles authorizing legislation on atomic energy projects. The Appropriations Committee controls all money bills.

The New Mexico Democrat said the AEC "certainly needs more money." The reductions resulted from a misunderstanding on the Senate and House floors, he said, as to the amount of funds the commission had unspent from previous years.

The President said he signed the appropriations bill from which the cuts were made with "great reluctance". He said the jeopardized programs were "most crucial in maintaining a strong national defense and in maintaining this nation's leadership in bringing the benefits of atomic energy to the service of mankind both here and abroad."

"For these reasons," he said, "I would hope that the Congress would reconsider its action and make supplementary amounts available so as to avoid serious disruptions in this most vital program."

In his statement, the President also took a slap at Congress for adding 107 public works projects to the appropriations bill. Ultimate costs of these projects, he said, could amount to at least $1,500,000,000.

89 U.S. Catholics Attend Eucharistic Meet at Rio

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 15 (AP)—Pilgrims from five continents are converging here for the 36th International Eucharistic Congress of the Roman Catholic Church which opens Tuesday.

Two million persons, including 20,000 from foreign lands, are expected to participate in the 8,000 Masses which will be celebrated in the five days of the Congress and the two days of preliminary religious services.

The Congress, fourth to be held in the Western Hemisphere and the second in South America, is being attended by a party of 88 clergymen from the United States who traveled on the liner Del Sud by way of Buenos Aires. Archbishop Joseph R. Rummel of New Orleans led the party.

Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, traveling separately, will celebrate the Mass for men at midnight on Friday after a solemn procession.

The troubles between the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Argentina and the regime of President Juan D. Peron are expected to be examined during the Congress. The delegation from the Vatican includes Msgr. Antonio Samore, head of the first section of the secretariat of state for extraordinary eccelsiastic affairs, who, it has been reported, may proceed to Buenos Aires after the Congress to study the church's position there. Also in the party from the Vatican are two expelled Argentine prelates.

Peron, who was excommunicated by the Vatican on June 16, the day a revolt broke out in Buenos Aires, is reported to have given permission for the two expelled prelates to return, and there have been other signs of an effort to patch up a state-church truce.

One of the richest and most colorful religious manifestations in the world, the International Eucharistic Congress had its beginning in Lille, France, in 1881. It is designed to emphasize the importance of the Eucharist, or the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, in the daily lives of men.

The group, made up mostly of in-service teachers, is traveling by chartered bus.

Farm Helper Ruled Out as Girl's Killer

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, July 15 (AP)—Police and the FBI today ruled out an Iowa farmhand as the killer of 2-year-old Donna Sue Davis of Sioux City and continued rounding up other persons for questioning.

Audrey Brandt, 42, La Porte City, was eliminated after he admitted, and then repudiated his statement, that he kidnaped the girl Sunday night. Her body was found across the Missouri River from here in Nebraska the next day.

"I got all riled up," Brandt said toda. "One thing just led to another," he said in explaining why he clung to a story of raping and beating the child.

In a statement, the FBI said that Brandt was in Salisbury, Mo., with a carnival from July 10 to 12. The Davis girl was taken from her crib the night of July 10.

The FBI said Brandt will be charged with making false statements.

Ike Flying to Geneva, Hopeful for Accords

contrasting with his grave manner in the broadcast.

In his preflight broadcast Eisenhower promised he and Secretary of State Dulles would be firm in principle yet conciliatory in attitude at Geneva.

Eisenhower spoke from the White House broadcast room at 8:15 p.m. EDT, an hour and a quarter before he, his wife and his son enplaned for Geneva. As he faced the TV cameras his manner was one of sober earnestness, tinged with hope.

CITES MANY ILLS

Yet he warned at the outset that the world's problems are too many and too serious to be settled at a single conference — a conference, he said firmly, that will last no more than a week as far as he is concerned.

He listed some of these problems — mounting armaments, for example.

Then he named a couple that the Russians don't want talked about at Geneva — the satellite states, or, as the President described them, "the captive states, once proud people that are not allowed their own government."

WEST'S RED PROBLEM

He mentioned, too, though not by that name, the West's problem of Communist subversion. He called it: "international interference in the internal affairs of free government, bringing about a situation that leads to subversion and difficulties and recrimination's within the countries—sometimes, even revolution."

On the whole, however, the President's attitude was one of conciliation—of promising the United States will not reject any hand outthrust in true friendship.

Eisenhower said futility has dogged international conferences in the recent past because of mutual mistrust, because of misuse of the meetings as propaganda sounding boards.

Then, more earnestly than ever, he declared:

"I say to you: if we can change the spirit in which these conferences are conducted, we will have taken the greatest step toward peace, toward future prosperity and tranquillity that has ever been taken in all the history of mankind."

Eisenhower said the trip was "in some respects unprecedented."

Other Presidents have left in time of war as commander in chief, he said, or to attend conferences at the end of a war.

"Now, for the first time, a President goes to engage in a conference with heads of other governments in order to prevent war . . . to keep from us this terrible scourge that afflicts mankind."

CAUSES OF ALARM

Differing ambitions, differing ideologies and other things cause division among world governments, he said. All these cause alarms, and "because of these alarms, they build up armaments, and these armaments build up other alarms."

Thus, he said, there is a deadly spiral to be combatted.

The chief executive solemnly drove home these points:

1. Pessimism never won any battles—in peace or in war.

2. One ingredient has been missing at past conferences—an honest desire "to see the other fellow's viewpoint."

If this spirit can be changed, he said, the greatest step toward permanent peace in the history of mankind will have been taken.

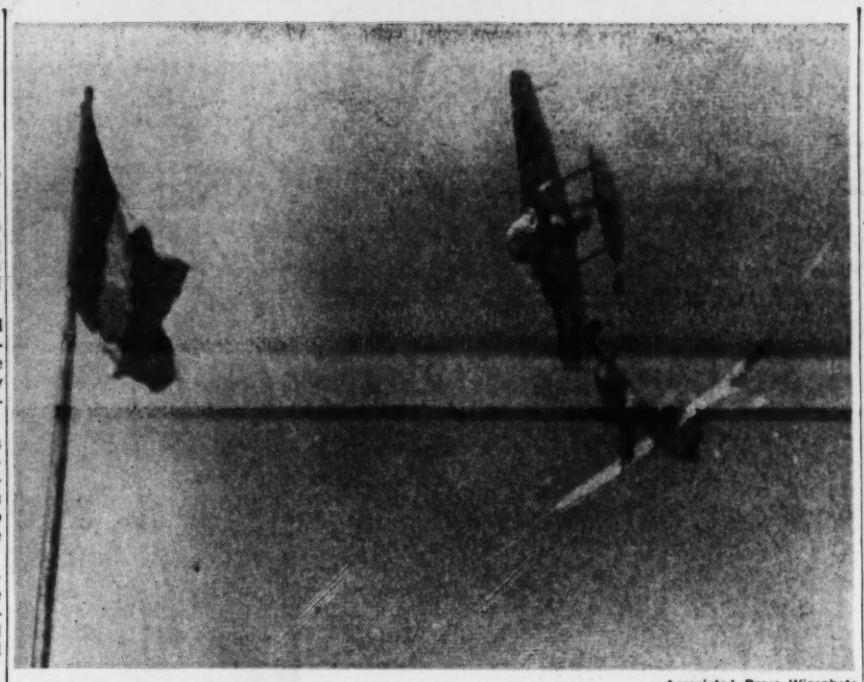

Eisenhower said the common people of the world demand peace and that their governments are beginning to recognize and bow to this demand.

In an earlier message tinged with hope, the President told Congress: "There are signs that the world may be entering a new phase in international relationship."

Eisenhower informed Congress he will enter the Big Four discussions Monday "with a full awareness of the opportunities offered by the United Nations to contribute to the peace of the world.

"If these meetings reach useful areas of agreement in the handling of international problems," he added, "then they will open new vistas looking toward further agreement.

"This can only mean that the United Nations can have new and wider opportunities to build upon the foundations thus laid."

7 House GOPs Warn Tax Rise May Destroy Public's Okay of SS

By JOHN D. MORRIS

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 15—Projected Social Security taxes "may eventually weaken or even destroy" public acceptance of the old age and survivors' insurance system, Republicans charged today.

The possibility was raised in a report to the House of Representatives by seven members of the Ways and Means Committee. It was a supplement to the committee's formal report on a bill for wider benefits and higher taxes. The measure is scheduled for House action Monday.

"We are creating a scale of benefits," the Republicans said, "which must be supported by a Social Security tax which, in the not too distant future, will be equal to and in many cases higher than the federal income tax."

EXAMPLE IS CITED

As an example, they said a self-employed farmer with two children and $4,200 of income in 1975 would pay $276 in income taxes and $283.50 in Social Security taxes. The 1975 Social Security tax rate would be 6¼ per cent compared with the present 20 per cent first-bracket income levy, but deductions for dependents, charitable contributions and the like do not apply against Social Security taxes.

The bill calls for new disability benefits, effective at the age of 50; benefits for women at the age of 62 instead of 65, and payments to disabled dependent children beyond the age of 18. In addition, coverage would be extended to self-employed professionals now excluded, except physicians.

To finance the wider benefits, Social Security taxes would be increased next Jan. 1 to 2½ per cent each for employers and employes and 3⅜ per cent for the self-employed. They apply to the first $4,200 of annual earnings and are now 2 per cent and 3 per cent respectively.

Step-ups scheduled under present law for 1960, 1965, 1970 and 1975 would be increased to the same extent—one half of a percentage point each for employers and employes and three-fourths of a point for the self-employed. The rates in 1975 consequently would and 6 per cent under present law.

HAVE GREAT MERIT

The Republican critics said several of the bill's provisions have "great merit" and added that "we recognize the political attractiveness of all" of them.

However, they deplored the "cursory and casual fashion" in which they said the measure had been handled behind — closed doors and without public hearings.

"Realism," they added, "requires us to face the cold fact that these projected tax burdens are so high as to effectively preclude any significant Social Security liberalizations in the future."

The report was signed by Reps. Thomas A. Jenkins (O.), Richard M. Simpson (Pa.), Robert W. Kean (N. J.), Noah M. Mason (Ill.), John V. Byrnes (Wis.), Antoni N. Sadlak and Thomas B. Curtis (Mo.).

Bulganin Declares Big 4 Leaders 'Can and Must' Resolve Disputes

many unsettled problems will remain, he insisted "we can and must patiently and in good faith discuss these questions around the conference table and fine peaceful solutions for them."

The opening part of the premier's remarks included a strong reminder of the horrors of modern war. Addressing himself to the peoples of Western Europe, Bulganin recalled the "innumerable sacrifices" of two world wars, the "swollen military budgets" and the "fear and anxiety" of the present armaments race.

No one could breathe freely, he asserted, until the threat of the "monstrous calamities of war" had been removed.

Bulganin predicted that "a great victory for peace would be won by the creation in Europe of a system of collective security with the participation of other states." Presumably this was an allusion to the United States and Canada.

Bulganin then proceeded to assail the notion that the Soviet Union had aggressive designs. Such tactics would "contradict our principles," he said.

But in view of the military blocs being created and military bases "being built around our country," Bulganin declared, "we naturally cannot avoid taking measures for safeguarding the security of our country." He added:

"We have an army—in our opinion a very good army—with all necessary materiel."

Zhukov, principal military spokesman on the Soviet delegation to Geneva, told correspondents later that he expected to meet Eisenhower outside the conference working sessions.

"After not having seen an old friend for so many years," he remarked smilingly, "that would be only natural."

He declined to elaborate on what he wished to discuss with his wartime comrade in arms except to ask "How are things with him, how is his health" and so forth.

press department promptly conteam occasioned some surprise here. Bulganin insisted yesterday his presence was essential for fruitful negotiations on disarmament. Zhukov and Eisenhower recently renewed their wartime friendship in an exchange of letters.

SOLICITUDE FOR PRESS

Bulganin's press conference is the most notable expression of the recent solicitude of Soviet leaders for the foreign press. The premier informed newsmen yesterday he intended to call a conference and the Foreign Ministry press department promptly confirmed the time and place in telephone calls to each correspondent this morning.

Promptly at 5 p.m. the premier and his principal collaborators appeared in the Kremlin conference room where correspondents, including photographers, were seated.

As Khushchev and the others gazed fixedly at the newsmen, Bulganin read his statement. Later at a reception for Ho Chi Minh, president of the Communist Viet Minh Republic, Bulganin declared Ho's country was already "partly a member of our family of democratic nations."

Unification and achievement of other "great tasks" were necessary before the Viet Minh leader would make the republic a full member of the family, he added.

Cochran Gets Chair in Girl Slaying Case

11:14 a.m., and the defense concluded its testimony at 4:35 p.m., calling a psychiatrist to the stand in an attempt to prove Cochran insane.

In their arguments to the jury, the defense attorneys contended the "sole consideration" before the jury was whether Cochran was sane. They made no attempt to deny that Cochran killed the girl but said the state should have made greater efforts to prove him sane before presenting the case to the jury.

The state contended the burden of proving Cochran insane rested with the defense. Mitchell agreed the slayer might be psychologically insane, but said the jury must decide whether or not he was legally insane, knowing right from wrong at the time of the crime.

In its argument, the state challanged Cochran's story that the girl went with him voluntarily. The state argued that Cochran forced the girl from her East Rome home June 20 at gunpoint, drove with her to a lonely road in Bartow County and shot her in the back as she attempted to break away from him.

Earlier, Dr. Herman Jones, state criminologist testified that he found severe bruise marks on the girl's throat and shoulder made before she died of a gunshot wound.

Improving Farm Marketing News, George Assures

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP). Plans are under way to strengthen the federal-state dairy and poultry marketing news service in Georgia, Sen. George (D-Ga.) was informed by the Department of Agriculture today.

George had inquired about the service after receiving a report that it might be reduced.

To the contrary, Earl L. Butz, assistant secretary of agriculture, told George there is an agreement awaiting the signature of the Georgia commissioner of agriculture to improve the service in accordance with "recognized needs."

three years ago that segregation in the Summerton schools was constitutional so long as facilities were equal. The Supreme Court reversed that finding.

Judge Parker said he thought it important "for the school system of the South to be preserved, and I don't think you want anything different."

"Why isn't a decree such as I have indicated a wise one?" he asked Thurgood Marshall, general counsel of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who at first had protested.

The Negro attorney answered that studies of segregation show that postponement of action "hurts rather than helps" and that matters work themselves out better when action is "taken with finality."

Judge Parker pointed out, however, that the trustees would be expected to act with "all deliberate speed."

Marshall, who had argued for an order for integration by September, finally agreed to the decree.

Health and Safety Tips Offered for Vacationers

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, July 15—Timely health and safety advice for vacationing families has been offered by the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co.

The institute suggests, for example, that the quickest and safest way to remove a tick from the skin is to put a drop of ether, chloroform, nail polish remover or even lighter fluid on it. It should not be "yanked out," it is explained, since an embedded tick head may cause serious infection.

The importance of knowing the difference between heat prostration and sunstroke is emphasized by the institute. The treatment for each is given. In heat prostration the body is cold, clammy and bluish-pale, and treatment calls for bringing the temperature up to normal by keeping the body warm. With sunstroke the body is dry, hot and red and temperature must be brought down by applying cool water or similar cooling devices.

For a safer vacation-bound car, the institute recommends the following: the side or rear-view mirror should always be clear and provide unblocked vision; baggage should be kept to a minimum and be properly balanced when put into the car. A car too heavily laden is hard to stop vacationers are reminded.

At least one member of every family should know something about basic first aid, the institute concludes. Far removed from medical help, some one in the family may require immediate attention to a burn, a broken bone or an insect or snake bite.

Why is Soviet Russia building Bigger Bombers?

Read these grim facts that show why America must immediately have more civilian volunteers in Air Defense Filter Centers and plane spotter observation posts

Despite the growing volume of "peaceful intention" speeches flowing from the Kremlin, our government knows that the Soviet Union air force is constantly and rapidly increasing its capability to launch a surprise, devastating air attack upon our country. Not only are the Soviets adding more long-range bombers to their attack groups, but they are concentrating on bigger and faster aircraft. The masters of the Kremlin have little need for aircraft of this type except for an attack against the United States.

Our Army, Navy and Air Force are working round the clock to guard our nation from this threat, and they grow stronger every day. Our radar network is in constant operation to warn us of approaching danger, but we must remember that radar installations are not infallible. Under certain conditions, civilian plane spotters might well be the principle means of providing information of approaching enemy bombers.

As a volunteer plane spotter in the Ground Observer Corps, your eyes and ears are needed to detect and report these hostile aircraft. Attacking planes must be detected and tracked to be destroyed. Join the more than 300,000 of your fellow Americans who are now serving in the Ground Observer Corps. Won't you serve your country for a few hours a week?

The World Survived The First 10 Years

There must be something symbolic in the fact that President Eisenhower wings his way to the Big Four meeting at Geneva on the eve of one of the greatest anniversaries of human history.

Exactly 10 years ago, July 15, 1945, a group of scientists and technicians were huddled in the desert making last-minute preparations for an event that changed the world. It is impossible, even now, to evaluate the meaning of that change but the blast that came at 5:30 the next morning near Los Alamos definitely set the course of world affairs in a new and different direction.

The explosion occurred, too, exactly one day before the opening of the last Big Four meeting at Potsdam, where President Truman heard that the costly experiment to harness atomic energy had been successful. At Potsdam in search of peace, following the most costly war of all time, the President's disclosure seemed a fitting climax to the age-old story of the futility of war.

We know that it did not work out that way. We know, too, that without the atomic bomb our faithless Russian ally probably would have overrun a prostrate Europe. When the bomb fell on Hiroshima it signalled the beginning of the end of Russian expansion by force.

The frustration of Soviet ambitions ended, too, the "meetings at the summit" for a decade. Potsdam—although repeated efforts were made to recapture the spirit of cooperation during the war itself—was the beginning of the 10-year cold war that has proved almost as costly as World War II itself.

No one knows for certain whether the first "meeting at the summit" since Potsdam will yield results. But the quest for peace must never end. The event on the morning of July 16, 1945, makes it mandatory that all nations try to find a way to live together. Otherwise it could mean the destruction of them all.

The anniversary of the explosion of the first atom bomb is a reminder that without it the world probably would already have experienced World War III. It has been a force for peace. As the heads of the world's four biggest powers meet at Geneva, in the background will be the certain knowledge that failure to find peace while the H-bomb exists as a weapon of war is an invitation to incineration of them all.

Let us hope that this anniversary will see the beginning of an era of permanent world peace, a recognition that atomic and hydrogen weapons leave no alternative except world destruction.

Two New Deputies Save The City From a Scare

Only the presence of two rookie deputies stood between Atlanta and a big manhunt this week.

Thursday night 26 prisoners tried to force their way out of the antique and overcrowded Fulton County jail. They nearly succeeded. They had prepared clubs from mop and broom handles. They had sprung the jail's old cell doors, and congregated on the prison's second floor.

Noise was their undoing. Deputies Charles R. Bishop and Warren W. Baxter went to investigate the unusual sounds and found the prisoners ready to force their way out of the building.

The threat of tear gas restored order and the prisoners filed back to their cells, their homemade clubs unused. Later some of the men worked their way out of their cells again. And again they had to be forcibly returned.

Sheriff R. Ralph Grimes has ordered 96 locks to replace the cells' old bolting mechanisms. The sheriff also remarked that Fulton Tower is growing old.

It was a close call. Twenty-six prisoners on the loose in a city the size of Atlanta would be hard to round up.

Again we have an example of the inadequacy of the Fulton County jail. Its age and lack of facilities have been cited by grand jury after grand jury and recognized by the county commission. A new county jail is a must for the near future.

Ellijay's New Hospital Is a Fine Achievement

It is encouraging to note that progress is being made in every section of the state in providing hospital facilities. Many projects are under construction and some are being completed. Additional hospitals are awaiting funds under the Hill-Burton Act and will add to the state's growing facilities for improving health conditions.

Sunday up at Ellijay citizens of Gilmer County will turn out to dedicate a new hospital that cost $319,000. They will also honor a 79-year-old physician, Dr. Ed Watkins, whose $50,000 donation got the project started. The remainder needed to match Hill-Burton funds was raised through a bond issue.

Communities throughout the state are to be congratulated on recognizing a basic need for human progress and welfare. Others who are still hesitating can learn from those who have gone ahead. They will find that no community with new and modern hospital facilities would be willing to give them up.

We congratulate Ellijay and Gilmer County as the latest to complete their community hospital and join with its citizens in honoring Dr. Watkins, whose contribution of $50,000 is just one of his splendid contributions to community welfare.

FBI Proves Alertness In Auto Theft Case

Indictment of 12 persons in Federal Court in Atlanta Thursday on charges of operating an interstate auto theft ring represents good work by the FBI office here. J. K. Mumford, agent-in-charge, and his staff have done a patient job covering eight months of careful investigation.

Georgia has been known for a long time as one of the easiest states in the nation for auto thieves to operate. Absence of an adequate title law has been given credit for this state of affairs. Efforts to have such a law passed by the General Assembly have been fruitless to date but this indictment proves the need still exists.

Let us hope that the FBI indictment will end the traffic in stolen autos in Georgia. Certainly the entire state will be grateful to the Atlanta office for a splendid service and for its alertness in tracking down the alleged ring.

Postmaster Question At Last Seems Solved

After many delays, President Eisenhower has nominated Burl F. Sanders to be postmaster of Atlanta.

Mr. Sanders, a career man of more than a quarter century with the postal service, has been acting postmaster since June, 1953. Confirmation of his appointment by the Senate will end all uncertainty as to who fills the job on a permanent basis, and should boost the morale of the city's many postal employes.

The Atlanta post office was run long and ably by Lon Livingston until his retirement in June, 1952. At one time there were 23 applicants for the position. Mr. Sanders, a Republican, finally received the approval of his party patronage chiefs. Since postmasterships now are career jobs, he had to receive the approval of the Civil Service, too.

Handling Atlanta's mail is a tremendous job. Mr. Sanders' years as acting postmaster have proven that he is well-qualified for the position. We congratulate him on the President's nomination, and are happy that the question finally is settled.

Pops Concerts Awaited With Keen Anticipation

The Pox Theater will open its doors for the tenth annual Atlantic Pops Concert series Sunday afternoon. And all Atlanta welcomes it wholeheartedly.

There will be six such concerts this year, brought to Atlantans free of charge through cosponsorship of the city, the Atlanta Federation of Musicians and the Fox Theater. They promise to be the finest presentations of the decade.

Young soloists, singers and instrumentalists chosen through statewide auditions, will add zest to the splendid presentations of the 53-piece orchestra directed by Albert Coleman. Maestro Coleman is a finished artist and the variety of jazz and classical music will again be a delight as will the superb 50-voice choir.

This splendid summer activity adds greatly to the city's cultural life and gives opportunity and recognition to fine young talent from throughout the state.

The community has thoroughly enjoyed the past nine seasons and awaits with anticipation the tenth opening tomorrow.

The inevitable has happened. The superintendent of buildings and grounds at Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., complained he was tired of seeing the stuff that passes for modern art. So, when the college scheduled such an exhibit, he purchased canvas and frame, dug up some old house paint, and created a conglomeration of weird streaks and colors. Then he secretly hung his "phony" among paintings in the exhibit. Most visitors, according to the Associated Press, accepted the thing as genuine modern art. Further comment would be superfluous.

'Supply City's Need of 601 New Classrooms By Partitioning Auditoriums,' Atlantan Asks

Atlanta—Atlanta needs 601 new classrooms costing some 15 million dollars. By all means we should have them. But why cannot school auditoriums be turned into classrooms?

What in heaven's name do we need school auditoriums for. Some bureaucrat who loves to hear himself talk comes after school hours to keep teachers as a captive audience for a few hours longer. Or some lady who thinks that her child is a potential Shirley Temple insists that the school produce a play, of course with her darling as the star.

We do not need school auditoriums at all. We need classrooms. And the citizens' ability to pay has reached the end. Why not partition the school auditoriums and create classrooms economically. The auditoriums are a luxury, but the classrooms a necessity.

Pilgrims Did Not Like Excess, Briton Says

Kew, England—In your issue of April 29th you had an article headed "One Mayflower Pilgrim Took Boat Back Home," referring to the ancestor of Midshipman John Winslow, Royal Navy, my son. This is incorrect because our particular branch of the Winslow family was in Boston until 1775 when, being "Loyalists," we were evacuated with the British troops to New York, from where the widow of Isaac Winslow with her infant son Thomas returned to England. It is from this son Thomas that the English branch of the Winslows are descended. In the meantime, we had done our share in building stable foundations for your great country.

Your correspondent seems to have wrong views on the temperament of the Pilgrims. They went to church for long hours and were constant in pryaer, but there was plenty of jollity amongst them as the records show. What they did not like was excess, such as they sometimes saw in later and neighboring settlements.

It was an American descendant of my good old ancestor John Winslow (who married Mary Chilton of the "Mayflower") who sent me the cutting from your paper and I hope you can find room for this little correction. We English Winslows have kept in touch with the American Winslows ever since 1776 and have frequent meetings—a good record for Anglo-American relations.

'Juvenile Delinquency Exists in the South'

Atlanta — I have never been so irritated and furious as I was when I read, "Atlantan Teaches in Jungle of Terror," by Betty Carrollton, in The Atlanta Constitution.

It is obvious that the article is highly exaggerated. I will agree that juvenile delinquency exists, but not to the outrageous and alarming proportions that Miss Berkowitz tries to portray. Let us not forget that juvenile delinquency exists in the South. . . .

This is not the opinion of a native New Yorker, for I was born in the South, attended college in the South and have only spent six months of my life in New York.

Says Georgia's Taxes Lower Than Alabama's

Cairo — In the past few weeks I have read a continuous barrage of letters and editorials complaining about the governor's tax increase program. I feel that something favorable to this program should be heard along with all the opposition.

In the first place I would like to say that I came to the state of Georgia four years ago from Alabama. From my own experience I know that the citizens of Alabama pay far more taxes than do the citizens of Georgia. Yet, in all the years I spent in Alabama I never heard as much complaining about taxes as during the few years I've spent in Georgia.

Single Purchasing Agency For All Services Needed

One of the best reports made by the retiring Hoover Commission is that on business organization of the Defense Department. Perhaps it is also one least likely to succeed. It bucks tradition of the services and is certain to raise the hackles of the generals and admirals.

Among some score of recommendations in this study, the most outstanding is the proposal to create a single agency, which would buy all supplies other than arms. Each branch now has its own service of supply. The new agency would amount to a fourth supply service, handling non-military items for the whole defense plant.

The commission predicts an annual saving of $2,000,000,000, if its reorganization plan is put into effect. While the report does not suggest a deliberate waste of this amount under present practice, the implication of waste through inefficiency is clear.

The importance of gearing defense operations to improved economy is obvious. We have been spending about $35,000,000,000 a year for the military; Congress has all but passed a $32,000,000,000 appropriation for next year. This cost represents approximately 60 cents out of every tax dollar. Defense Department assets, real and personal, amount to about $140,000,000,000—equal to the value of all privately owned land in the United States. Obviously this is the largest field for savings in the whole federal function.

The single purchasing agency urged would be civilian-managed. The public expected one of the results of the law integrating the military would be just such a procedure. But a master purchasing agency has not operated. The consequence has been overlapping supply, excessive stores, more costly purchase contracts. Because each service arm wants to do its own buying, and because the military resents civilian management, the Hoover recommendation will have a rough go in Congress.

Duplicate purchasing staffs and duplicate stocks, distribution systems and storage facilities demand a unit purchasing agency for the Defense Department, except for arms and combat supplies. This is ABC management economy.

Congress should remember that, when the Hoover recommendations come before them. It is Congress' obligation to determine operation of the military system, at least when policies are not concerned with professional matters such as strategy, tactics and types of armament.

The Girl Who Went To Listen

"Why don't you speak for yourself, Joan?" is the line that has landed a pretty young Atlantan a job as vocalist with a dance band. The opportunity came by way of the annual Atlanta Pop Concerts, the first of which is Sunday afternoon at the Fox Theater. Here's the way it happened. Miss Martha Ann Meadows came up from Columbus to audition for Albert Coleman, maestro for the Pops. For moral support, Martha carried along her friend Joan Ferchand of Atlanta. Miss Ferchand, herself, had achieved distinction, not as a singer, but as one of the five finalists in the 1955 "Miss Georgia" contest.

Maestro Coleman was pleased with the voice from Columbus. He invited Miss Meadows to the final Pops auditions. Then casually he asked her friend, Joan Ferchand, "Do you sing, too?"

"No, not really," she demurred. "Just a little popular stuff."

At the Coleman insistence, she hummed a few bars, then sang aloud.

The music master must have liked what he heard. He has signed Joan Ferchand as soloist with his dance band for the winter season.

Men Always Have Different Opinions

"The kingdom of God does not mean food and drink but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit; he who serves Christ is acceptable to God and approved by men" (Romans 14:17-18, RSV).

St. Paul in these words is putting "first things first." He is trying to separate the essentials in faith from the nonessentials. He is distinguishing between the better and the best.

Let us put these verses in perspective. The early church, like the latter-day church, had differences of opinion among the faithful. Paul, in the superlative fourteenth chapter of Romans, is offering some rules of thumb for Christian behavior. One Christian had said that he would not eat certain foods, but another Christian, equally devout I presume, saw nothing spiritually wrong with these foods. One man claimed particular foods to be unclean, but another accepted them as clean.

"What does all this really matter?" Paul retorts. Yet he adds, "Do not for the sake of food, destroy the work of God. Everything is indeed clean, but it is wrong for any one to make others fall by what he eats; it is right not to eat meat or drink wine or do anything that makes your brother stumble." (Romans 14:20-21.) No man, he means, should violate, if possible, the sensitivity of another man. For the kingdom of God does not primarily concern food and drink but rather mutual understanding and forbearance.

St. Ambrose had a word, later approved by St. Augustine: "When in Rome do as the Romans do," which reversely might read: "When in Rome refrain from that which is not approved by the Romans." This sentiment might mean that when a man is among pagans he should behave like a heathen. But that isn't the meaning that was intended. The real meaning gets to the heart of human relationships and of our mutual respect and esteem for the customs and traditions of others than ourselves.

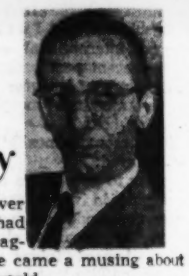

The problem of eating and drinking does not too greatly concern us today, but the problem of respecting another man's honest opinion is still with us.

Not all men, and indeed not all Christians, are in agreement about certain codes of conduct. Standards of behavior vary. Two honest men may look at the same subject from different points of view. Is he wrong if his behavior differs from mine? Or am I wrong when I do what he desists from doing?

St. Paul, with typical vigor and candor, proclaims that nothing should separate the brethren, nothing of secondary significance should disrupt the harmony of the group. Therefore, in the spirit of Christian tolerance and forbearance, a man should make allowance for the differences in the behavior of his brother and hope that the same generosity of spirit will motivate his brother's attitude toward him.

Differences there always will be among men, for, fortunately, we are not identical in background, experience or temperament. But one thing is certain. Our mutual respect for each other is essential to the harmony within a nation, a community, a church and a home.

Many Distractions In World of Today

The other day while tinkering with the power mower (a maladjustment of the throttle had caused the device to gasp as though it were staggering straight to where bad mowers go), there came a musing about the complexities of this modern mechanized world.

This musing was given impetus by the coincidental reading of a paper a teacher had written on the subject of helping children develop self-discipline, a wide field indeed. Here's a part of what the teacher, G. A. Dorsey of Rome said:

"The child of today must face a more complex world than that of the time when we came along. Many aspects of civilization have advanced so rapidly that there are more things to claim his attention and to distract him. At best the normal child has the prospect of having to make many more adjustments than the child of former times. His world is better in many ways, but it contains more to learn, more to cope with, more variety of choices which have to be made. Stresses and strains which put the adult on his mettle must also have a great deal of effect on the child, and one may wonder how so many of them are able to make as nice adjustments as they do."

This generous recognition of the accomplishments of adjusting juveniles seems merited. There are a lot of distractions in today's rockin' and rollin' world. Once in the dim pastoral past childhood and manhood were confronted with problems of a rather simple nature. Time was when the mastering of the rather simple milk-giving appendage of the cow was about as tough a challenge as youth had to face.

But today—aha! The child sits peacefully in front of that one-eyed creature, television. There comes an electronic spasm, and the big eye closes. This kind of thing is disruptive to the young mind. Some juveniles have even been known to give the beast a mighty kick.

And the toys today are of a horribly intricate fashioning. Once dad was able to pitch in and make little wheels turn again, but what can the old man do with a death ray gun which shoots purple flames, gives out an atomic noise, and sees around corners?

The adult world has its mechanistic labyrinths, too. Just the other day a neighbor was wheeling a floor polisher through the kitchen when one end of the thing hit the automatic washing machine. Nearly knocked her into the next county. A short circuit in the motor, the repairman said.

Well, that's just the way it is. We've got civilization, and civilization's go us, and that's all there is to it.

State's Public Health Plan Will Eventually Cost Less

In the Valdosta Daily Times

The State Health Department has announced plans for a reorganization of its activities that seem to contain a lot of good sense and it is to be hoped that it will work out as indicated.

Under the announced plan, the activities of the public health services will be put on a district basis instead of the county basis as it is now constituted. This will not be possible in a few days or weeks. It is estimated that it will take about five years to bring about the desired changes. It will depend on procuring the needed personnel and certain adjustments in local conditions.

Under present conditions only 49 of the 159 counties in the state have a health commissioner and some of the counties have no public health facilities at all. Many of them have not been able to afford the personnel and facilities needed to maintain such a program.

Under the proposed plan, there will be 38 district offices, with trained personnel in each district to provide public health facilities in each of the counties in the various districts. The state will pay the cost of the program and each district office will maintain sufficient staff to serve 50,000 people in accord with the recommendations of the American Medical Association.

According to Dr. T. F. Sellers, director of the State Department of Public Health, the new plan will, in the end, cost the state and the counties less than under the present plan and public health facilities will be available in all counties. It will be the first time Georgia has had a statewide public health service.

The Department of Public Health deserves and should have full support of the public. It is serving in an important field.

Our state is in the process of changing many of its important governmental functions and it is to be expected that some of these changes will take time and patience. It is important that from time to time there be changes that will more efficiently meet current needs.

The State Health Department seems to be moving in the right direction. Other departments might well follow his lead and work out changes that will be more efficient and bring about some economy in governmental expenditures.

At the present time a committee authorized by the General Assembly is making a study of governmental departments of the state with a view to bringing about more efficiency and savings in governmental cost. It is generally recognized that economies can be had if the proper study is made of all departments and the manner in which they operate. This committee has an opportunity of doing a real service to the people of Georgia.

Female of the Species

A woman, it develops, is a deadly weapon in the hands of a vicious tennis racquet. She comes handsomely packaged in flapping skirt or clinging trousers that accentuate the positive. Some are blonde and ravishing and some are brunette and ravishing. All are killers.

From courtside, they appear to smile engagingly, and then go to the attack as if in a hurry to get home to a roast left in the oven.

Bisher

On the center court at the Bitsy Grant Center, Barbara Breit of North Hollywood, Calif., was indulging in the womanly art of tennis offense in the National Clay Courts tournament. Her intended victim was Karol Fageros of Miami, like Miss Breit, too young to be concerned about roasts in ovens.

It was in the mid-morning of Friday, and there were not many people to see. But Miss Breit, only recently defeated in Cincinnati by a little figurine named Mimi Arnold, stroked resolutely ahead, and purposefully. She was knifing Miss Fageros, a stately damsel of flaxen hair, to ribbons. With each successful placement she seemed to bore in more vigorously.

In the end, Miss Breit, ranked No. 1 among junior girls in the country, allowed Miss Fageros, ranked No. 18 among girls in general, just one game. The kill was made deftly, after which the two combatants met at the net, shook hands, smiled prettily again and spoke hastily of the divine game each had just played. Peace and goodwill seemed to reign everywhere, except that when a photographer approached Miss Fageros about joining in on a portrait, she suggested that he conclude his business and be on his way.

She was unhappy. Miss Breit, with set jaw, was by no means contented with one victim. She walked firmly to the pairings board to inspect the progress of her next opponent.

—Like a Bargain Basement Stampede

The other afternoon, little Yola Ramirez, the Mexican girl with the copper-tone finish, walked into the pro shop to report the results of her match with Carolyn Ligouri of Brooklyn.

"I won," she said briskly to the pro, Jack Rodgers, "6-0, 6-0."

"Land o' Goshen!" Rodgers is supposed to have said. "Why are you girls so mean to one another? Why didn't you let her win a game or two?"

"If I let her win one," said Miss Ramirez with a serious expression, "she want another one."

This was a Thursday match in the women's singles of the Clay Courts. That same day Barbara Wright of North Hollywood stripped Audrey Brown of Southern Pines, N.C.,

KILLER INSTINCT SHOWN BY PAIR OF LADIES

Karol Fageros (L) and Tiny Mimi Arnold

6-0, 6-1. Jean Clarke of Birmingham ran through Mary Lou Vash of Chicago, 6-0, 6-3. Miss Fageros crushed Sara Turber of Evansville, Ind., 6-1, 6-1.

"In a men's mismatch," Rodgers said, "the top player will almost always let the other guy win a game or two. But not these women players. Brother, they came to play and get off the court, and it's like a stampede. You know how it is in a bargain basement on sale day? Well, they're the same way when they get somebody they can manhandle on the tennis court. They have no mercy for a victim."

Allison Danzig, the gentle tennis authority of the New York Times, stood closely by. He smiled and nodded his head and said: "I have no doubt that inwardly this is the feminine way of rebelling against the masculine dominance."

—The News Arrived Too Late

On the court directly ahead was Miss Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., rebelling against the charge of Miss Clark of Birmingham. The Arnold child came here without seeding, though she ranks fifth among the junior girls. The news of the Breit upset hadn't seeped through the lines to the seeding committee in time.

Therefore, should she beat Miss Clark, it would be an upset by the seedings. The Birmingham girl, for that matter has some rank of her own, No. 1 in the South and No. 11 in the nation. She was having herself a wrestle, for little Miss Arnold was hanging on like a pestilence.

She is a tiny thing, no higher than a counter, too small to charge the net. She wears a Molly Mallory haircut and retrieves like Bitsy Grant. Tennis is in her bloodline, for her mother, Ethel Burkhardt Arnold, was the second-ranking woman player in the nation to Helen Wills Moody in 1935.

Child Mimi slid and whirled about the baseline, stroked her forehand with caution and her backhand with firmness. She went to the net only when Miss Clark drew her in. It was nearly always fatal.

After the rest between the second and third sets, it was obvious the toll had been taken. Little Mimi had nothing left but a little fight. The Birmingham girl rubbed her out and they met at the net and had a handshake. They violated the code. They weren't mad at anybody. They were too tired. They were just glad it was over.

THEY CLASH BY DAY . . . DOUBLES FAVORITES MIX SIGNALS

Here's the near and far view of an incident in Friday's third-round doubles match between top-seeded Ham Richardson and Tony Trabert and unranked David Harum and Johann Kupferberger. At one point in the match, Richardson (L) and Trabert got their signals crossed and both went after the same ball with much clashing of rackets and gnashing of teeth. Below is a distant view of the same scene with Harum (L) and Kupferberger standing confused in the foreground, not knowing where the ball will come from. Answer: It flew out of bounds and out of the picture.

Lead Nightcap at Curfew After 7-6 Opener Loss

By JESSE OUTLAR
Constitution Sports Writer

MEMPHIS, July 5—An intended pitchout by Bob Giggie backfired into a 7-6 Memphis victory over Atlanta with two down in the eighth inning of the short half of a double-header Friday night.

Gerry Dahlke buzzed across with the tie-breaking run when Sam Esposito reached out and drove Giggie's soft serve to center for a sacrifice fly.

Dahlke, who had beat out an infield hit, was on third and Luis Aparicio was on first via a single when Giggie had his mental lapse.

Rocco Ippolito's two-run homer, hiking his RBI output to four, had sent the game into overtime in the seveth.

The triumph broke a four-game losing streak for Jack Cassini's men, who wasted a 6-1 lead after the third inning.

A four-run rally in the sixth, which chased starter Paul Stuffel, enabled the Crackers to assume a 5-4 lead in the suspended second game. The 12.20 curfew rang down the curtain after seven innings and the game won't be completed until the Crackers return here Sept. 4. Six Memphis errors helped supply Murray Wall's thin edge.

The Crackers are idle Saturday and will open a three-game set in Nashville with a Sunday double-header.

Ripplemeyer was jumped for two runs in the Chick first. Luis Aparicio, who has beat out an infield hit and swiped second, crossed on Joe Hick's force-out.

Ippolito's double and Rambone's two-out single promoted a marker in the Cracker second.

The Chicks then unloaded on Ripplemeyer for four runs in the third.

Bob Thorpe's 386-foot drive over the center field fence started the Cracker comeback in the fourth. Two more Crackers counted in the fifth. Dick Sinovic, swinging for Ripplemeyer, and Jack Caro singled, and Earl Hersh walked to pack the bases. Ippolito then came through with a two-run single.

Ippolito, continuing his terrific slugging, walloped his two-run homer over the center fence to put the Crackers even and Paul Rambone's two-base throwing error on Ed White's roller and Hicks' hit to center gave the Chicks a 1-0 lead in the second inning of the second game.

The Crackers got the run back in the third when Rambone beat out an infield hit to Esposito and raced all the way to third on the infielder's bad throw to first. Marv Rackley deflected a single off Stuffel's glove to plate Rambone, Rambone had wiated at third when Aparicio pulled Upright off the bag with a wide throw. Hersh walked to load the bases, but Stuffel turned back Sinovic and Ippolito to end the threat.

Memphis went ahead with another marker in the home half of the third. Aparicio walked, stole second and scored on Upright's hit to right after Esposito walked. Esposito took third on Upright's hit, but was nailed at the plate by Rackley's throw after White skied to center.

Hanson Fires Sub-Par 70

FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 15 (AP)—Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., shot a five-under-par 70 today for an opening-day lead over such favorites as Fay Crocker and Louise Suggs in the Ladies' Professional Golf Assn. Championships.

After a par 37 on the front nine, Miss Hanson got five birdies and four pars on the back nine on the rain-soaked hills of the Orchard Ridge Country Club course for a 33. She said it was her lowest nine of the year.

Tied for eighth at 74 was Miss Suggs, the Sea Island, Ga., expert who leads the ladies with season winnings of $10,458.

A gallery favorite was Diane Garrett, 18, Houston, Tex., whose two-under-par 35 on the front nine was the best of the three women tied at 73 for the first 18 holes.

Youths, Sharpshooters Play In Tennis Semifinals Today

By LARRY FOX

The veteran precisionists against the young slammers, that's the picture for Saturday's semifinals in the men's singles division of the National Clay Courts tennis championships at the Bitsy Grant tennis center; and that may very well be the story for the doubles windup, too.

The sharp-shooters here are Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., and Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J. They played their pin-point games together Friday, winning two matches as a team to gain the semifinal in doubles, where they're seeded second.

The huskies are Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., who also won two matches Friday to make the doubles semifinal. The youngsters, both in their early twenties, are top-seeded in doubles.

Saturday, Trabert, top-seeded singles entry, takes on Moylan, No. 3 pick, at 3:30 p.m. in a singles semifinal after Richardson, rated second, and Bartzen, the defending champion but picked only fourth, finish their squabble for a berth in the finals. Bartzen and Richardson take the court at 1:30.

Bartzen, 28 years old, and Moylan, 31, got a bit of a scare when the collegiate combo of Barry MacKay (Michigan) and John Been (Houston U.) forced play all the way in the first set and took the lead in shockingly easy fashion. However, the favorites regained control, stopped making costly errors and put the youngsters to bed, 1-6, 6-2, 6-2, in the quarter-finals.

In a third-round match earlier, Bartzen and Moylan downed another young team of Karl Kamrath, Houston, and Ron Holmberg, Brooklyn, N.Y., 6-1, 6-1.

Trabert and Richardson had no such trouble. In the third round they ousted David Harum, Coral Gables, Fla., and Johann Kupferberger, South Africa, doubles partners for the University of Miami, 6-3, 6-3. In the quarters, they eliminated Bill Quillian, Seattle, and Jerry Moss, San Francisco, 6-2, 6-2.

In doubles semifinals, Bartzen and Moylan meet Ed Kauder and Robin Willner, both of Los Angeles, and 6-2, 6-3 victors over Atlantans Crawford Henry and Larry Shippey in the quarterfinals. Trabert and Richardson meet Sam Giamalva and Dick Schuette, both of Houston, who advanced by whipping Mike Green, Miami, and Olejandro Olmedo, Peru, 6-4, 6-4. Both matches start at 5:30 p.m.

Women's semifinals start at 12:30, after Friday's action saw only one quarterfinal bout go the full distance. That was a corker between tidbit size Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., and blonde Jean Clarke of Birmingham.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

Clarke, third seeded, finally wore down her unrated foe, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2 in a bitterly fought match. In the semis, Clarke faces top-seeded Barbara Breit of North Hollywood, Calif. Breit smashed Karol Fageros of Miami Beach, 6-0, 6-1, in the quarters.

In the upper bracket, second-seeded Dorothy Head Knode of Alemeda, Calif., gained the semis with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over young Pat Schaffer of St. Petersburg, Fla. Mrs. Knode plays Yola Ramirez of Mexico City, the top foreign seed. Ramirez pulled an upset of sorts by whipping fourth-ranked Janet Hopps of Seattle, 6-2, 6-1.

Joe Piercey Missing From Cracker Camp

MEMPHIS, July 15—Pitcher Joe Piercey, who had appeared in 39 games for Atlanta this season, was not in uniform Friday when the Crackers played Memphis a double-header.

The veteran lefty reportedly had left the club and returned to Atlanta.

Manager George McQuinn, questioned about Piercey's absence after the first game, declined comment and said that he'd discuss the matter "later."

Bill George, who rooms with Piercey on the road, admitted that he hadn't seen Joe all day, but refused to comment further.

Piercey had been discontent with his status on McQuinn's staff for some time. Murray Wall and Bob Giggie have been doing most of the clutch relief work of late.

The pitcher's last appearance was a winning five-inning stint as a starter in Little Rock July 12. This improved his record to 6-2.

AAU Swimmers Hit Rome Pool at One Today

By AL THOMY
Constitution Sports Writer

ROME, July 15—Over 200 splashers are expected for Saturday's sixth annual North Georgia AAU Invitational swimming meet, which starts at 1 p.m. in the Rome Municipal Pool.

Defending champion in the men's division is the Athens Swim Club, which is again entered this year, and putting their title on the line among the mermaids are the girls from Lafayette Swim Club, headed by the Bardwell sisters, Ann and Mary.

It is expected that Hal Stolz, one of the nation's top breaststrokers, will be on the Athens squad this go-around, although Reid Patterson, Georgia's NCAA All-American, probably won't make the trip. Patterson has been working out at Yale University in preparation for the National AAUs.

Oak Ridge, Tenn., in the form of the Atomic City Aquatic Club, will be a team favorite in the men's and women's divisions. The Tennesseans took first place among the men at Gainesville last week, and their girls finished second. Other teams expected are Emory Aquatic Club, Ansley Golf Course, Chattanooga Aquatic Club, Callaway Swim Club, Knoxville Swim Club, Atlanta Independent Swim Assn., Anniston (Ala.) Swim Assn., and three teams from Birmingham.

SCHEDULE (beginning at 1 p.m.): 200-yard medley relay (senior men, then women); 50-yard freestyle (boys 14 and under, then girls); 50-yard freestyle (senior men, then women); 25-yard freestyle (boys 10 and under, then girls); 100-yard butterfly (senior men, then women); 50-yard butterfly (boys 14 and under, then girls); 200-yard freestyle (senior men); 100-yard backstroke (senior women).

50-yard backstroke (boys 14 and under, then girls); 100-yard backstroke (senior men); 25-yard backstroke (boys 10 and under, then girls); 100-yard freestyle (senior women); 200-yard individual medley (senior men); 100-yard individual medley (boys 14 and under, then girls); 100-yard freestyle (senior men); 200-yard individual medley (senior women); 3-meter diving (senior men); 200-yard freestyle relay (senior women, then men).

Noren Clout in 10th Blisters Tribe, 4-3

Robinson Homer Ties It For New York in Ninth

CLEVELAND, July 15 (AP)—Home runs by Eddie Robinson and Irv Noren brought the New York Yankees a 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians today and dropped the Tribe to third place, five games back and a half-game behind Chicago.

The Yankees had made only four singles off Early Wynn and were trailing 3-0 when Robinson unloaded his 14th homer of the season in the ninth with one out and two on to tie the score.

Noren clubbed his sixth homer over the center field fence in the 10th with two out to provide the winning margin.

Wynn, who had blanked the Yanks, 5-0, on three hits in New York June 26, appeared headed for his 12th victory and fourth straight over the Yanks when Joe Collins led off the ninth with a single. Mickey Mantle walked, Yogi Berra popped to shortstop, then Robinson connected.

The Indians had hopped off to an early lead by scoring two unearned first-inning runs off Bullet Bob Turley, also going after his 12th triumph.

Tom Morgan, who hurled the ninth inning, was credited with the victory, and the loss was Garcia's 10th against five won.

Where'd Pilots Go? Georgia to Kokomo

By AL THOMY

Al Thomy

What happens when a baseball team gives up the ghost? Where do the players go? These questions aren't too hard to answer in the case of Statesboro's Pilots, who were down to 11 players before dropping out of the Georgia State League.

Of the 11, five belonged to other organizations anyway, so that left only six on the roster. Now not one of those six can be found in Statesboro. They have scattered all the way from Crestview to Kokomo.

Manager Jerry Peters and pitcher Charley Dobberstein have joined the Kokomo, Ind., club of the Missouri-Ohio Valley League. Catcher-outfielder Bob Caldwell went to play under ex-Cracker Neb Wilson at Crestview of the Florida-Alabama. Dave Reider and Luke Isenhour of the outfield and infield, respectively, were picked up by the West Palm Beach club of the Florida State, and rookie outfielder Joe Jordan decided to return to his South Hill, Va., home before making any choice.

HIT N' RUN: No wonder Eddie Popowski got a case of ulcers at Montgomery. His Rebels got nine straight, 11 of 14, and yet gained only one-half game on league-leading Jacksonville! Incidentally, Neb Wilson, manager of the Crestview, Fla., club and an ex-Rebel, calls Montgomery outfielder George Toepfer "a real major league prospect." . . . Sandersville's Vic Davis is the top strikeout pitcher in the Georgia State, but he balances this honor with the dubious "first" of having walked the most batters, 80. . . . In one year Luis Arroyo, a left-handed thrower, jumped from Columbus' Sally League club to the majors' All-Star game, and sadly enough, Luis, who had the best ERA on the All-Star squad, was the only man who didn't play.

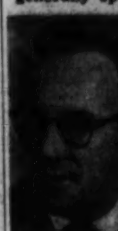

And that's some race in the Georgia-Florida where J. C. Dunn's Albany Cards and Frank Oceak's Brunswick's Pirates are pushing one another out of first place at regular intervals . . . Albany's Will Lackey and Crestview's Jeff Wadkins, ex-Atlanta school boy, have reached the 17 mark in victories . . . Manager Paul Eames of the Tifton (Georgia-Florida) club recently offered to resign, but the team's board of directors gave him a vote of confidence . . . Who said baseball was dying? Cordele at this time last year had drawn 9,783 fans; for the present season it has counted 14,056. Really an encouraging note.

BOATING IN GEORGIA

There's No End to Boating, But Here's How to Start

By BILL ALLEN

Bill Allen

Before World War II, outboard motors and boats were things used in fishing and racing, generally speaking.

Now, there are apparently no horizons to their use and growth. The appeal of from three to 40 portable horsepowers — light enough to be trunked or pulled on a trailer effortlessly by any automobile—is apparently universal.

In Georgia, and particularly Atlanta, where the boat and motor boom thunders loudest in this country, the first rush is for five-horsepower motors and suitable boats.

Motors are available, of course from three to unrated 40 horsepower.

And, rumor has it that the corporation that invented and developed the first practicable outboard will produce a giant horsepower—some rumors say test-rated 50 hp—next year.

Why all this sudden emphasis on power?

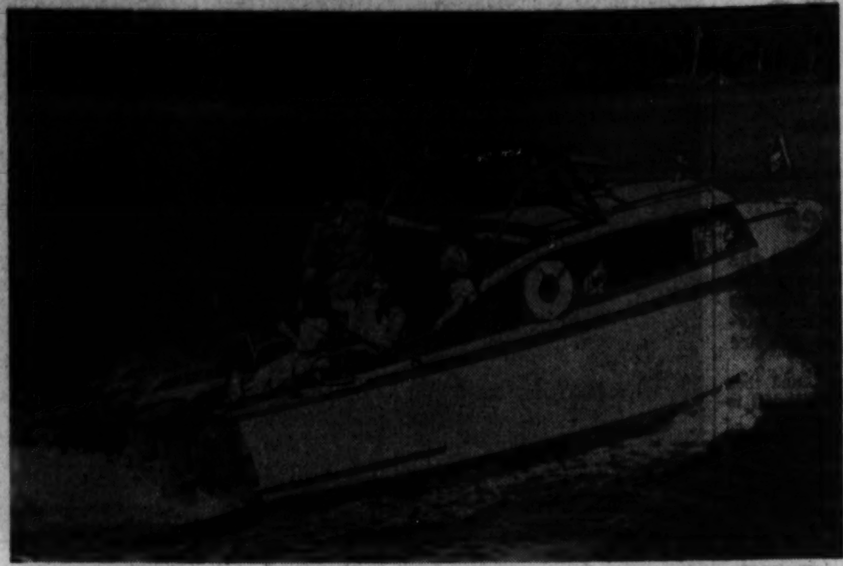

One answer is the outboard cruiser, and another is the new, safer construction and balance of so-called small boats by all manufacturers so they will take large motors.

The outboard cruiser is a miniature yacht (between 18 and 24 feet long) with sleeping room, enclosed galley space and a large deck astern—definitely not built for casting, but very useful in trolling. It is run by outboards from 10 hp on up, usually with the 25 hp models now available with electric starters.

As a matter of fact, the "silent" features of the new motors and the electric starting gimmick have done more than anything to make boating of universal appeal.

Because, when a cruiser is purchased, it is a family affair and mother becomes a boater too if she doesn't have to hazard bursitis yanking a crank cord and if her kitchen-worn nerves do not have to face the usual roar of an outboard.

She doesn't have to fish, and since the outboard cruiser is portable by trailer, the family has a home anywhere there is water. In Georgia, now, that is approximately everywhere.

ON VACATION, R. D. SHERRILL AND FAMILY VISITED LAKE SINCLAIR
Afterwards, They Put Outboard Cruiser On Trailer and Moved To Clark Hill, Coast

Most folks go through a stage of growth in boating if they are not fishermen first, last and always.

First they get a neat, trim 12-14 foot skiff and a five horse motor. That is about a $500 outlay unless both are bought used, or unless the boat is built at home. (If they are bought used up to 33 per cent can be saved and a competent dealer in boats and motors is the best source. If bought from a private party, it is best to have the boat and motor inspected by someone "in the trade." If the boat is built from one of the many kits, you can save up to 50 per cent in most cases.)

From the skiff, the family usually graduates to a runabout, 16 or 18 feet long, and a 10 hp or 25 hp motor. Speed, maneuverability, handsomeness and seaworthiness are the added attractions of such an outfit. This can run into three figures, but not necessarily.

Most Georgia boaters are in the two foregoing stages of development right now, but many have their eyes on an inexpensive outboard cruiser, the best of which can be built at home for less than $1,000, and which can be bought in almost any grade of decor for whatever amount you please.

The natural question is: "What does he think the average family is—talking about thousand dollar boats?"

Well, a boat is not a toy, nowadays. It's an investment, and the largest banks about the state recognize it as such with financing plans. With two 50,000-acre lakes now taking shape, to be filled in 1956 (Buford and Jim Woodruff near Bainbridge) and another begun (at Hartwell), it looks as if boats are here to stay.

Then, there's the Atlantic Coast waterway.

Bean Rallies 7 Strokes To Enter Publinx Finals

Summerville, Georgian Faces Defending Champ's Conqueror

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS, July 15 (AP)—Sam D. Kocsis of Detroit and Lewis T. Bean of Summerville, Ga., a couple of golfers who won't quit, today fought uphill into tomorrow's 36-hole championship match of the USGA Public Links tournament at Coffin Municipal Course.

Kocsis, 35-year-old Detroit industrial expediter, eliminated defending champion Gene Andrews of Pacific Palisades, Calif., one up after trailing by two holes early in the match.

Bean, an auto salesman, fought back from a six-hole deficit to defeat Ralph Allen of Miami Springs, Fla., one up in 37 holes.

Andrews showed Kocsis a 1-over-par 71 in the morning round but they were even at lunch. Kocsis had a 72, including a double-bogey 6 on the ninth hole, where he got involved with mud left by a two-inch overnight rain. The Detroiter stroked a 73 in the afternoon to Andrews' 75.

PUBLINX SEMIFINALS

[illegible] Extra Hole—Bean 5; Allen 7. Bean wins, 1 up, 37 holes.

The 42-year-old Andrews tired in the afternoon's steaming heat and his 40 going out was his worst nine hole score of the tourney. Even so, he was only one down at the turn as a result of sinking a couple of birdie putts of 24 and 6 feet.

Kocsis made one birdie, on a 10-foot putt, but won two other holes with pars.

ITALIAN OPEN ROAD RACING BANNED AS SAFETY MEASURE

MILAN, Italy, July 15 (AP)—All Italian open road auto racing has been banned for the rest of 1955 as an emergency safety measure.

The only exception to the ruling set by the Italian Sport and Racing Commission was for the short-distance uphill races that are held in the Italian Alps and Dolomites. For those races the roads usually are blocked off to normal traffic.

Italy's big open road classic, the Mille Miglia (1,000 mile) Race already has been held. The ban will stop two important road events, the Tour of Calabria and the Tour of Umbria.

Previously open road motorcycle racing was banned as a result of three deaths within a few weeks.

The auto ruling said that all Italian road race routes will be re-checked for safety measures and possible local speed regulations will be approved for racing next year.

Two-Run Kennedy Clout Puts White Sox in 2nd

Chicago Maintains Hex Over Nats; Dixie Howell Notches Win No. 2

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP)—Pinch-batter Bob Kennedy's drive to right-center in the last of the ninth inning today rolled past center fielder Johnny Groth and brought in two runners, giving the Chicago White Sox a 5-to-4 victory over the Washington Senators.

The clout was scored as a triple. Jim Rivera and Ron Jackson, running for Sherm Lollar, scored as Groth missed a diving catch and the ball skidded to the wall.

It was the Sox' 11th straight victory over the Senators and moved the Sox into second place.

Kennedy's tripple was the first Sox hit since the second inning and gave "Dixie" Howell his second win of the year against one defeat.

Chuck Stobbs, who pitched hitless ball in the seventh and eighth in relief of Johnny Schmitz, was tagged for the loss. It was his 10th defeat compared to one win.

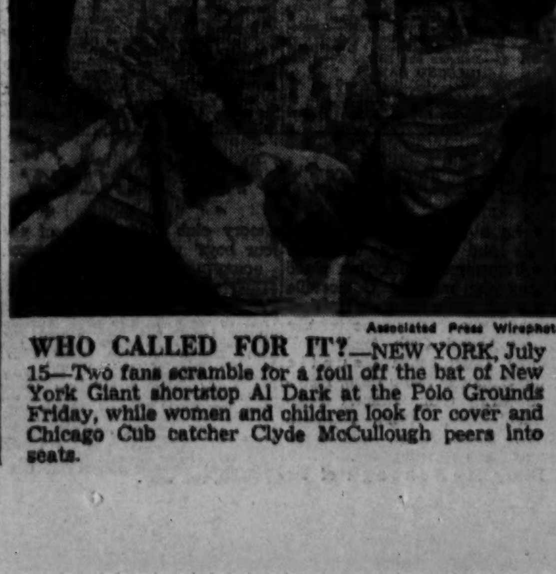

The Sox took the lead in the first on a walk to Nellie Fox, Minnie Minoso's single and George Kell's sacrifice fly. They added two more in the second on a single by Jim Rivera, a walk to Sherm Lollar, a double steal, and Virgil Trucks' two-run single.

Roy Sievers slammed his 11th homer of the year in the second and the Nats pulled into a tie in the seventh on Ernie Oravetz' pinch single that counted two runs.

Washington took the lead in the eighth at the expense of Sandy Consuegra as Sievers punched a single to right to score Clint Courtney from second.

The loss was Washington's 28th in the last 34 games.

Rebounding Giants Leap Past Cubs With 10th Victory in Last 12 Games

Jim Hearn Hurls Ninth Triumph As New York Bolts Into Third

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—New York's revived Giants won their 10th game of their last 12 today and climbed past Chicago to third place in the National League standings with a 5-3 verdict over the Cubs.

Willie Mays, shackled by Chicago pitching in previous encounters, smacked two singles and a fifth-inning double as Big Jim Hearn held the Cubs to eight hits, one of which was Jim King's home run with the bases empty in the fourth inning, to win his ninth game of the year.

Manager Stan Hack gave the Cub lineup a violent shakeup, benching infielders Randy Jackson and Dee Fondy and outfielder Hank Sauer.

Hearn opened the Giant half of the fifth inning with a single and scored on Mays' double, a blooper in shallow right field which Gene Baker couldn't hold after a long run.

The Cubs also scored in the first on singles by Lloyd Merriman, Baker and Bob Speake, who played first. Their other tally came in the sixth when Speake reached first on an error, moved to third on another miscue and counted on a forceout.

The setback was the 11th of the season for Sam (Toothpick) Jones, who was relieved in the seventh by Harry Perkowski.

Only a Boot Would Snap Southern Back From Financial Headache at Little Rock

Jesse Outlar

MEMPHIS, July 14—Of the many ailments plaguing the Southern Association, the most acute is Little Rock. Therefore, the Travelers, a severe financial burden to visiting clubs, are sure to be the top topic when Southern directors huddle before the all-star game in Birmingham next Tuesday.

John Baird, wealthy owner of the Little Rock club, reportedly has said that the Travelers will be in business at the same old stand next year. The club will be lucky to hit the 55,000 mark this season but Baird presumably is ready to pick up the tab at home.

Apparently, there's no solution to the financial beating the other seven teams take on their jaunts to Little Rock. Only sure cure would be for the directors to give Little Rock the boot. However, you can rest assured they won't.

Proof that Jack Cassini, the Memphis' fireball, is a good manager is provided by his unpopularity with other pilots around the loop. "I want to beat everybody," one of the managers said recently, "but knocking off Cassini gives me the biggest pleasure of all." . . . Rollie Hemsley, the Kansas City scout, thinks his 1949 pennant edition at Nashville would run away with the current Southern race. . . . "One of the most depressing things about declining attendance in the minors is the fact that the country is enjoying an all-time peak in prosperity," says Atlanta Cracker Owner Earl Mann. "I shudder to think what we'd be doing if the nation was in a depression."

Latest member of the Milwaukee chain is West Palm Beach of the Florida State League, which has signed a limited working agreement with the Braves. . . . Paul Pettit, a $100,000 bonus flop as a pitcher with Pittsburgh, is one of the leading hitters in the Mexican League as an outfielder. He has been termed major league timber by some scouts.

Babe Herman, noted for bone-headed base running and comical fielding as a Brooklyn Dodger, is out with a book on baseball. And what do you think the title is?—"On Your Toes." . . . An ad in the Sporting News reads "short cut to the majors, join the Athletics." . . . One-time Cracker Pitcher John Fitzgerald, who was no puzzle to Southern batsmen, fanned 19 Winston-Salem hitters for Deanville in a Carolina League game last week.

Bob Montag, the Cracker homer king, is clubbing a lilting .343 for Beaumont and has swatted seven homers. . . . Frank Torre is up to .308 at Toledo, after a miserable start. . . . Carl Powis, member of Fort Mac's star-studded '54 outfit, is patrolling centerfield for Portland in the Pacific Coast League.

That annual rumor that Lefty O'Doul is moving up to a major league club as manager next year is circulating again in Oakland. This time they say he's switching from Oakland to the Philadelphia Phils. . . . Ex-Cracker Gene Verble is riding the bench at Seattle. . . . Bob Porterfield, the Washington Senator ace, holds the unenviable distinction of being the losingest hurler in the majors with a 7-12 record. . . . You hear stories in Memphis that Atlantan Luke Appling, now at Richmond, might return here as manager next year.

Doug Sanders Falls In SE Golf Upset

Wesley Nips Champion In Day Full of Stunners

By BERT PRATHER
Constitution Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, July 15—Harold Wesley, former University of Alabama golf team member from Greenville, Ala., dashed the hopes of Cedartown's Doug Sanders' winning a record three straight Southeastern Amateur golf championships here Friday afternoon when he eliminated the University of Florida ace, 2 and 1, in a rugged second-round battle.

Harold, brother of Gilbert Wesley, winner of the 1950 Southeastern title, was three-under over the par-72 Columbus Country Club course when the match terminated on the par-five 17th hole, with both players sinking for birdies. Sanders' putt was a 20-footer, while Wesley tapped it in from about six feet for the clincher.

The Alabaman shot a fine 33 on the front nine to hold a three-up lead. He pushed it to four-up with a win on 10 before losing 13 to Sanders' par-four. Sanders trimmed the margin to two-up with a par-four win at 15, but there his rally ended.

The Cedartown ace was one under par himself for the 17 holes. Harold used up 28 putts and missed only four greens in the match.

Wesley had moved into the second round with a 4 and 3 victory over George Johnson of Atlanta and Georgia Tech, while the defending champ squeaked by young Hugh Royer Jr., of Columbus, one-up, to set up this second-round thriller.

In another second-round stunner, Arnold Blum of Macon, former Southern, state and three-time winner of this tournament, was knocked out on the 19th hole by Cecil Calhoun of Columbus. Calhoun closed it out with a birdie four. Cecil, '55 captain of the LSU golf team, lasted Frank Boynton of Orlando, Fla., out in the morning, 2 and 1. Blum's morning victim was young Morris Copeland of Griffin, 7 and 6.

Upsets started springing up right off the bat. In three morning form reversals, Joe Eubanks of Daytona Beach, Fla., downed highly-rated Billy Key of the host club, one-up; Suthern Intercollegiate champ Lester Kelly fell before University of Georgia teammate Earl Bowden Jr. of Columbus, 2 and 1, and Jack Key, Columbus, twice runner-up and once champion of the Southeastern, was sidelined by club-mate Sonny Swift, 3 and 2.

Medalist Tommy Aaron remained in the running despite the fact an infected foot necessitated his playing barefooted. He downed Charles Spross of Fort Benning, 6 and 5, and Mark McCormick of Camp Gordon in a 19-holer.

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT, First Round—Doug Sanders, Cedartown, beat Hugh Royer Jr., Columbus, 1-up; Harold Wesley, Greenville, Ala. beat George Johnson, Atlanta, 4 and 3; Sonny Ellis, Atlanta, beat Dickie Moss, Columbus, 4 and 3; Joe Eubanks, Daytona Beach, Fla., beat Billy Key, Columbus, 1-up; Cecil Calhoun, Columbus, beat Frank Boynton, Orlando, Fla., 2 and 1; Arnold Blum, Macon, beat Morris Copeland, Griffin, 7 and 6; George Kyle Jr., Columbus, beat Jackie Cummings, Tuscaloosa, Ala., 4 and 3; M. C. Fitts, Tuscaloosa, Ala., beat Mickey Gallagher Jr., Augusta, 5 and 3; Tommy Aaron, Gainesville, beat Charlie Spross, Ft. Benning, 6 and 5; Mark McCormick, Camp Gordon, beat Sonny Jackson, Columbus, 4 and 3; George Hamer, Columbus, beat Bobby Dunn, Camilla, 3 and 2; Earl Bowden Jr., Columbus, beat Lester Kelly, Atlanta, 2 and 1; Sonny Swift, Columbus, beat Jack Key, Jr., Columbus, 3 and 2; Johnny Pott, Brookhaven, Miss., beat [illegible], Columbus, 2-up; Mason Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn., beat [illegible], Clarksville, 2 and 1; Charlie Dudley, Jr., Columbus, beat Art Copeland, Columbus, 7 and 6.

Second Round—Wesley beat Sanders, 2 and 1; Eubanks beat Ellis 1-up; Calhoun beat Blum, 19 holes; Fitts beat Kyle 4 and 3; Aaron beat McCormick, 19 holes; Hamer beat Bowdwn, 5 and 4; Swift beat Pott, 4 and 3; Rudolph beat Dudley, 2 and 1.

SATURDAY MORNING SCHEDULE—Wesley vs. Eubanks; Calhoun vs. Fitts; Aaron vs. Hamer, Swift vs. Rudolph.

Barons Score Twice in Ninth To Rap Little Rock, Host, 5-3

Nashville Club's Pels 10-6; Bears, Looks Divide Again

By JIM LAXSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Birmingham Barons found two runs waiting for them in the ninth inning as they spanked Little Rock, 5-3, in a Southern Assn. game Friday night.

Nashville slammed New Orleans, 10-6, and Mobile split a doubleheader with Chattanooga for the second straight night.

Traveler pitcher Bene Host, who has beaten Birmingham three times this year, saw victory vanish because of his own wildness and a fluke hit.

Going into the ninth, the score was tied 3-3. With none out, Host walked two, uncocked a wild pitch and saw Tom Hamilton punch a fluke hit toward shortstop. Frank McElroy had trouble handling the twister and then overthrew first base allowing two runs to score.

The Birmingham victory went to Jack McMahan, stock left-handed relief ace who no whas an 8-1 chart.

Jack Wallaesa was the big gun for the Travs. He had four singles and knocked in all Little Rock runs, including two in the eighth that tied the score.

Nashville banged out 13 hits in its victory over New Orleans as lefty Roy Pardue won his 13th game against six losses.

It was the second victory in a row for Nashville and moved the Vols into 5th place.

Nashville tallied in six of the nine innings, scoring in all but the third, fourth and sixth.

New Orleans bunched three runs in the third and three more in the eighth and committed three fielding errors.

Mobile won the opener, 3-1, on a two-hit performance by Bill Currie. Chattanooga won the second game, 4-2.

Dickson Handcuffs Braves on 3-Hitter

Blaylock Triple Plates Jones To Hand Phillies Victory

PHILADELPHIA, July 15 (AP)—Marv Blaylock tripled after Willie Jones walked in the eighth inning tonight as the Philadelphia Phillies edged the Milwaukee Braves, 1-0, in a tightly pitched ball game. Veteran Murry Dickson limited the Braves to three hits while Blaylock's three-bagger was one of only six hits off Lew Burdette.

The lone run of the game developed after Del Ennis had popped out as leadoff batter in the Phils half of the eighth. Jones reached first on a pass. Then, after Andy Seminick flied out, Blaylock tripled off the right field wall, sending Jones scampering home. Roy Smalley was walked intentionally, but Dickson grounded out to end the short-lived but effective rally.

For Dickson it was win No. 6. He's lost the same number.

Dickson fanned two and walked three in holding the Braves in check all the way.

The lone hits off the Philadelphia righthander were a first-inning single by Ed Mathews, a third inning single by Del Crandall and an infield single by Bill Bruton in the sixth.

Burdette got the loss, his fifth against seven wins.

Newk Bats, Hurls Brooks Over Cards

BROOKLYN, July 15 (AP)—Don Newcombe, the Dodgers' strong man, personally wrapped up his 15th victory of the season today with an eight-hit pitching job, a record-equalling homer and three other hits as Brooklyn smashed the St. Louis Cardinals 12-3.

Newcombe walloped his sixth homer of the season over the right field screen to start the eighth inning. That tied a season record for National League pitchers and touched off a six-run inning, during which Newk came to bat a second time and rapped out a single.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Aussie Cuppers Lead Mexico; Jackie Robinson Ailing Again

Condensed From Wire Reports

In Chicago, Ken Rosewall and Rex Hartwig got Australia off to an expected 2-0 lead over Mexico Friday as the American Zone Davis Cup competition got under way.

Ken Rosewall

Rosewall whipped Gustavo Palafox, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2, while Hartwig was extended to four sets to defeat 18-year-old Esteban Rayes, 6-0, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Meanwhile, Italy's team advanced to the finals in European Zone Davis Cup competition when Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola defeated Britain's Bobbie Wilson and Michael Davies. The Italians took a 3-0 margin in the zone play. They play the winner of the Chile-Sweden match for the title.

Brazil took a 2-0 lead over Cuba by winning singles matches in the Havana zone play, and in Bastaad, Sweden, Chile's team divided opening singles matches with Sweden.

MORE TENNIS: U.S. champion Doris Hart shut out Germany's Enge Vogler, 6-0, 6-0, to enter the finals of the Duesseldorf International against Erika Vollmer. Hugh Stewart, Los Angeles, beat German champ Ernst Buchholz, 6-4, 6-4, in a quarterfinal match.

BASEBALL: Jackie Robinson was back on the Dodger ailing list as his trick left knee gave way at the plate during batting practice. . . . The Dodgers optioned stiff-armed Jim Hughes to St. Paul of the American Association, sold Bob Borkowski outright to the same club to call up two young righthanders to brace a sagging pitching staff. The rookies are Don Bessent from St. Paul (8-5) and Roger Craig from Montreal (10-2). . . . The Cleveland Indians sent rookie first baseman Joe Altobelli back to Indianapolis on option to make room for Ferris Fain, whom they signed after Detroit released him.

RACING—Two $100,000-added races, the Arlington Classic at Chicago and the Hollywood Gold Cup at Inglewood, Calif., plus the rich King George and Queen Elizabeth Stakes at Ascot, England, will hold attention of all horse fans Saturday. Belair Stud's Nashua head the 3-year-old field in the classic under 126 pounds, and is rated the 2-5 choice to grab his sixth $100,000 race this season.

Jim Turnesa Takes Lead On Record-Breaking 63

Two-Day 130 Leads Middlecoff And Souchak in Milwaukee Open

MILWAUKEE, July 15 (AP)—Jim Turnesa knocked out a seven-under-par 63 today to break the Blue Mound course record and take the halfway lead in the $35,000 Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

The 1952 National PGA titlist from Briarcliff, N. Y., went out in 31 strokes and returned in 32 to beat the old course record by one stroke. His 67 in the first round Thursday with today's score gives him a 36-hole total of 130.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the ex-dentist from Memphis, Tenn., who took the medalist honors by equaling the course record Thursday, fired a 67 today to drop back into second place with 131.

Jack Fleck of Davenport, the 1955 U. S. Open champion, failed to make the grade when he scored 73 today to post a 36-hole total of 145.

Mincey Takes Peach Bowl Win

Speedsters Charlie Mincey and Calvin Bagley had the judges working overtime as they sped neck-and-neck to the finish line in the 25-lap feature modified stock car race at the Peach Bowl Speedway Friday night. The verdict was Mincey.

A four-car tangle on the 22nd lap involving Shorty Seig, Gerald Dukes, Roscoe Thompson and Bill Hamby allowed Mincy and Bagley to take the lead which they never relinquished.

Plainsmen Not in Camp

WINNIPEG, July 15 (AP)—Winnipeg's Blue Bombers opened their training camp today for the 1955 Western Interprovincial Union football season without highly-rated quarterback Bobby Freeman and center Jack Locklear, both graduates of Auburn.

Bomber Coach Al Sherman disclosed at a press conference that he, Club President Ralph Misener and Secretary Barry Manning had failed in their attempts to talk with the pair during a visit to Cleveland yesterday.

Freeman and Locklear were signed last January by the Bombers, who also paid them bonuses.

BALL BOYS TAB RON HOLMBERG EASIEST PLAYER TO WORK WITH

Everybody else had been rating the tennis players around here, so let's go to the boys who really know, the ball boys at the Bitsy Grant Tennis Center who must deal with the competitors between every point during the National Clay Courts Tennis Championships.

Most difficult, runner-up: Husky Jack Frost, Monterey, Calif. "He gets to hitting the ball away after he's lost a point, then we have to chase it."

Most cooperative, runner-up: Boyish Tony Trabert, Cincinnati, with a cynical note. "He's been easy so far, but he's been winning so far, too."

Most confusing: Scholarly Ham Richardson, Baton Rouge, La. "He talks to himself all the time and we never know if he's saying something to us or not."

Most frightening: Poker-faced Bernard (Tut) Bartzen, San Angelo, Tex.: "He expects us to do everything right but he's nice about it. Only he looks so fierce and determined out there, we're a little afraid of him."

THE CLIPBOARD: Surprise in Friday's play was the defeat of John Dorr and Monte Ganger, both of Cleveland, in the senior men's doubles quarterfinals by Nathan Brandon, St. Petersburg, and Allen Schmidt, Louisville, who later lost to Atlanta's Bitsy Grant and Malon Courts in the semis. . . . Mimi Arnold, the Redwood, Calif., half-pint, comes by her tennis talent naturally. Her mother is Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold, once ranked second in women's singles in the U.S. . . . Most consistent fan in the house is Mrs. R. H. Smith of Atlanta, Crawford Henry's grandmother. She's a favorite of all the players, too, possibly because of that little box of fudge she carries with her. . . . Bartzen wears a cap sometimes while playing that probably has the longest bill in creation. . . . And did you ever wonder why the players always wipe the perspiration from their eyes after missing an easy shot but never when making a good one?

Jean Clarke, who calls young Arnold the most persistent retriever she ever played, joins the physical education staff at Howard College in Birmingham Monday. She'll probably coach the tennis team next spring, too, while still remaining an amateur under the new relaxed code. Only a player who receives pay for giving private lessons is now listed a pro. And the player may coach, so long as he or she is getting paid mainly for other duties. . . . Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode is about ready to collect the money-back guarantee on her sun-burn oil, if there is one. She's a violent pink about the cheeks, nose and forehead. . . . Richardson reports he'll take about two weeks off from the tour after next week's tournament at Merion, Pa. His folks have moved to Westfield, N.J., and he'd like to see the new house. . . . Jerry Moss, formerly registered out of Modesto, Calif., has moved to San Francisco and may transfer his schooling from Modesto Junior College, where he will be a sophomore, to the University of San Francisco.—FOX.

Sosebee Risks SRE Lead

Gober Sosebee heads the field as Canton Speedway holds its first late model stock car race Saturday night, time trials starting at 7:30 and races at 8:30.

Gober Sosebee

Sosebee leads the Southern Racing Enterprises point standings in the late model division, with Birmingham's Ed Massey second. In third place, just 60 points off the pace, is Chester Barron. Sosebee holds a 40-point spread over Massey.

Other top drivers in the four prelims and a 50-lap feature are Roscoe Thompson, Donald Fowler, Thomas Aiken, Floyd Curtis, Travis Morgan and Ace Adams.

There will be several '55 models in the field.

Roberts on Waivers

OTTAWA, July 15 (AP) — Gene (Choo Choo) Roberts, halfback with Ottawa Rough Riders for the last three seasons, was placed on waivers today. He won the big four football league scoring title in 1953.

Selloff Cuts Grain Gains

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP)—A late selloff cut back gains in grains on the Board of Trade today, leaving the market with scattered plus and minus signs at the close.

At one time wheat had gains extending to around a cent. The bread grain set the tone for the rest of the market, which followed it higher. But all the upturn in wheat was wiped out by selling in the last 15 minutes.

Wheat closed ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, corn ⅝ lower to ⅛ higher, oats ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, rye ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, soybeans ¼ lower to ⅛ higher and lard 17 to 45 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Steel and Motors Boost the Market

Vigorous Action Dispels High Degree of Hesitancy

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Buying attention to steels and motors, plus strength in individual issues, combined today to send the stock market higher.

Some gains were quite extensive, and the list as a whole had many gains in the 1 to 3-point area. There were losses to around a point in key divisions, but they weren't concentrated.

The turn upward was accompanied by an expanded volume, and gainers outnumbered losers two-to-one.

All week the market has exhibited a high degree of hesitancy, but today a lot of this feeling was dispelled by the market's more vigorous action.

A trio of steel companies reported excellent earnings—Granite City, Allegheny Ludlum, and Republic—and their firmness helped the entire steel group.

Motors stepped ahead, and also higher were non-ferrous metal, mail order and merchandising shares, some chemicals, aircrafts, farm implements, railroads, and the tobaccos.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 60 cents at $174.30. It was ahead 30 cents yesterday. The industrial component added $1.00, railroads were up 50 cents while utilities remained unchanged.

American Broadcasting Paramount was the day's most active issue up 1⅝ at 32⅝ on 46,200 shares. It was followed by Colorado Fuel & Iron up 1⅜ at 28¼, Sperry Rand off ½ at 26, Oliver Corp. up ¾ at 17⅞, and U.S. Steel up ⅝ at 54.

The American Stock Exchange was higher on volume of 850,000 shares as compared with 680,000 shares traded yesterday.

The bond market was mixed. U.S. government issues in the over-the-counter market were easy.

Cotton Mixed; Trade Shaky

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 25 cents a bale higher to 35 cents lower today.

Prices swung over a fairly wide range in nervous dealings. The market reflected uncertaintly among traders as to what form the government's cotton policy will take with respect to disposal of surpluses, support prices and the acreage program for 1956.

Kemp Appointed Judge of Clayton Juvenile Court

A Jonesboro attorney, Edwin S. Kemp, has been named judge of Clayton County's newly established juvenile court. The appointment was announced by Stone Mountain Circuit Judges Frank Guess and Clarence Vaughn.

Kemp, a former Clayton County legislator and present head of the Stone Mountain Bar Assn., has been a practicing attorney since 1934. He was solicitor of Jonesboro city court for seven years and is a past president of the Clayton County Bar Assn.

The new judge named Harold R. Banke of Forest Park probation officer for the court, which will be located in the Clayton County courthouse.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—The cotton textile market was quiet Friday but prices showed rising tendencies in several directions. Dealers reported that late Thursday converters bought substantial quantities of print cloths and broadcloths for first-quarter delivery next year. Only a few mills were involved in the business. Others refused bids, because of uncertainty over wage and raw cotton costs that far ahead. The popular 80 square print cloths sold for first-quarter delivery next year at 18⅝ cents a yard as compared with the current spot price of 19c for average makes. Asking prices on drills and sateens were raised slightly.

In wool goods, a moderate amount of additional bookings were made by mills for spring and summer fabrics. Overall, the market was quiet.

Slow sales of spun and filament goods were reported in the rayon goods market. Vacation closings among some dye houses and cutters attributed to the dullness.

Ford Makes Last Car at Edgewater, Starts New Plant in N. J. Saturday

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

EDGEWATER, N.J., July 15—The 1,817,938th and last car was driven off the line today at the Ford Motor Co. assembly plant here. This brought to a close 25 years of automotive production. All facilities are being moved to new quarters at Mahwah, N.J.

Mrs. John A. Walsh, 58, of West New York, N.J., a chic brunette who has been on the Ford payroll 43 years, was behind the wheel of the final car, a white convertible. She was accompanied by Mayor Milton Lasher of Edgewater and Angus N. Harris, plant manager.

An over-all total of 225 truck and 210 freight car loads of materials and equipment will be moved from Edgewater. So swiftly is the transfer being carried on, through convoys of carriers, that the 177-acre Mahwah plant will go into production Saturday morning.

Church 'Menu Card' Stimulates Members

Dr. Paul Hortin, is a famous clergyman in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Recently he developed a printed list of various needs in his church. It covered items such as Sunday School teachers, youth leaders and dozens of others.

One entry on his chart stated the need for somebody to look after the church shrubbery and lawns.

One day an elderly man came up to Dr. Hortin and said he would enjoy taking over the responsibility for the shrubbery and lawns.

"I don't have much money to contribute to this wonderful church," said this parishioner, "but I have worked with shrubbery, so I'd be delighted to look after the grounds."

Dr. Hortin gladly accepted his generous offer.

"For we had obtained estimates from local firms as to what it would cost us for them to handle our grounds and shrubbery.

"The lowest bid we had received had been $75 per month. So this parishioner thus made a contribution equalling $900 per year in cash. I was very happy to accept his offer in the interest of our church."

GIFT LISTS

Frequently I have urged clergymen to prepare a "gift list" or itemized page of the various needs of their local church.

For there is a certain amount of fascination in running down such a list and picking out something that is within the ability or the pocketbook of the members.

Many readers are familiar with restaurant menu cards from which you order breakfast according to a certain number.

Number 1, for instance, may involve orange juice, toast and coffe, with a price tag of possibly 50 cents.

Number 2, may include those same items plus one egg, with a price of 75 cents.

Number 3 may include orange juice, toast, coffee and two eggs, with a slice of bacon, for $1, etc.

The patron runs down the menu to find what fits both his hunger and his purse.

We need to adapt this "menu card" technique to our churches, for there is a vast reservoir of untapped talent, as well as money, available in every church, if we can stimulate people adequately.

BE SPECIFIC

People also take a greater interest in a church when they can participate in its activities.

But parishioners prefer specific projects where they can actually see the definite results of their efforts.

A cash contribution to general church expenses is not as productive of ego inflation, as a specific gift of 100 song books for the Young People's Society, or a sandbox for the Nursery School, or a TV set.

For when we make tangible and specific gifts, we can see them afterwards and feel good inside at the continuing help which they render to toddlers, teen-agers or even adults.

Besides, ideas are the father of deeds, so a definite "gift list" stimulates the thinking. And before income tax deadlines, many people may find they have an extra $5 or $50 or even $500 available.

"Where shall I give it so it will do some good?" is a frequent query which I receive.

So prepare a "gift list" for your church. Then circulate it widely.

Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE VAN DELLEN

Questions Answered

D. S. writes: If the soft spots in a baby's skull are slow to close, does this mean anything serious?

The fontanels in the skull usually close before the first birthday. When they remain open the child may have rickets, cretinism, or hydrocephalus.

Mrs. F. writes: What is the treatment for the menopause?

The majority of women require no treatment. Those who do may need hormones or a down-to-earth discussion with the physician, who will explain the reason for psychological and other symptoms. Our leaflet on the menopause is concerned with these various aspects. It may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

C. F. writes: Is vasomotor rhinitis another name for hay fever?

Nasal congestion (vasomotor rhinitis) occurs in various conditions, including hay fever and the common cold. If it is on an allergic basis, the sufferer may be sensitive to dust, cosmetics, feathers, pollen or any of a long list of irritating substances. Thus his sneezing and sniffling is not on a seasonal basis as in hay fever. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on allergic, or vasomotor rhinitis.

This is the exception rather than the rule as complete healing usually takes place after a bout of pneumonia. I assume you are not confusing weakness of the lungs with lack of resistance to respiratory infections.

Decision on Warehouse Deferred for Site Survey

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Members of the Municipal Board of Adjustment will hold a special meeting at 1 p.m. Wednesday to vote on a petition by Grinnell Corp. seeking permission to erect a $320,000 warehouse at Northside drive and Flourney street, NW.

The board deferred action on the petition Friday. It decided to survey the two-acre site before acting on the petition to eliminate a 40-foot setback for the building. Board Charman Alfred T. Pitman scheduled the special session.

Charles W. Thrash, sales manager for the firm, urged approval of the petition, but board members decided they should survey the property before waiving the setback requirements for M-2 zoning.

The tract already has been zoned for M-2 use. Thrash said the warehouse now maintained at 240 North Highland Ave., NE, will be abandoned eventually when the new warehouse begins functioning.

Stevens & Wilkinson, architects on the proposed new structure, said the facility will have approximately 40,000 square feet of floor space.

The board also deferred action on a petition to reduce side-yard requirements on property at Third street and Argonne avenue, Northeast. All other petitions considered were approved.

Mayor Sunburned

Mayor Hartsfield arrived in Atlanta Friday with a painful sunburn suffered while attending the Shrine convention at Chicago. The mayor complained that "Lake Michigan suns up in Illinois treated me worse than Florida heat."

'Chicken Pickin'"

City officials, employes and their families will attend a "Chicken Pickin'" from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Saturday at the waterworks knoll, 665 Green St., NW., sponsored by the Atalanta Club.

Marriage Upcoming

R. Edward Conn, tabulator in the waterworks department, will join the ranks of the benedicts Sunday. He and Miss Saranette Fite will be married at the Highland Hills Baptist Church, Macon. . . . Police Lt. William L. Jay is recuperating in Georgia Baptist Hospital following an operation.

CALYPSO

Good Style Serves as Your Guide

By CHARLES GOREN
ARTICLE VII

When you begin to play a new game you cannot expect to develop keep insight and fine judgment in five minutes. These are qualities that you will develop only after you have played the game for a long time.

This doesn't mean that you must flounder about helplessly at the beginning. A good general style will serve as your guide during the early stages, until you are able to base your decisions on experience.

In the game of Calypso, the new popular card game that has come to us from England, it is easy to develop a good general style. The main thing is to make good use of your own trump suit, to help your partner use his suit, and to prevent the enemy from making effective use of their suits.

In order to make good use of your own suit, you must first understand when you can advantageously use a trump. You have an advantage when you lead your own suit, because any card that you lead (even a deuce) is treated as though it were an ace. You have an advantage when some other suit is led by another player, because if you can't follow suit you may play a card of your trump suit and thus win the trick. These are the chief advantages that you can get out of your trump suit.

You have no advantage at all from your suit if somebody else (an opponent, or even your partner) leads it. In this case the trick is won by the highest card, and you can't always hope to have the highest card of your own suit. Moreover, any other player may be able to trump such a trick; but, when someone else leads your suit, you cannot trump, which of course puts you at a disadvantage.

As you can see, it is often good style to lead your own suit. It may also be good style to save a trump or two to use when your short suit is led by some other player. These are the two ways of using your suit to advantage.

It is practically never good play to lead your partner's suit. As we have seen, this puts him at a disadvantage. It is, however, good tactics to lead an opponent's suit; which it has been pointed out places him at a disadvantage.

A Rhyme a Day

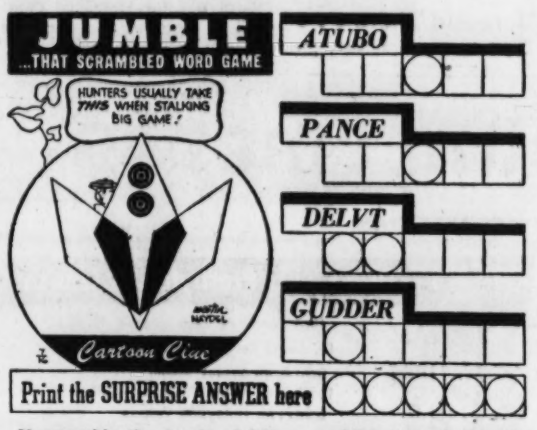

"The American public has been made health-conscious and many people waste the time of busy doctors with imaginary ills."—Article quote.

With minds and bodies overtaxed . . . it's difficult to be relaxed . . . although the doctor says we should . . . it doesn't seem to do much good . . . for anyone; and even he . . . is not relaxed until his fee . . . is paid, for many bills are old . . . and uncollectable, I'm told.

A lot of people are too fat . . . but when the doctor tells them that . . . they eat too much, they throw a fit . . . and swear to him, the little bit . . . they eat is not enough to cause . . . a man to look like Santa Claus.

Some other people are so thin . . . their bones are just beneath the skin . . . they eat the food and lick the plate . . . but never gain an ounce in weight . . . and though they never have a pain . . . they're worried since they do not gain.

These are the folks with time to kill . . . while people who are really ill . . . fill waiting rooms, like packed sardines . . . and read the last-year magazines.

Unscramble the 4 sets of letters, making a word of each jumble. Print each word, a letter to a square, beneath each jumble. The letters you have printed on the circled squares may then be arranged to spell the surprise answer suggested by the cartoon clue. What is it? (answer on Monday)

Vandiver Favors Making Economy Panel Permanent

An economy committee created by the recent special session of the Georgia Legislature should be set up on a permanent basis, Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver said Friday.

Such a permanent committee should be charged with eliminating waste in all phases of state government, Vandiver added.

In an article written for The Georgia Industrialist, official publication of the Associated Industries of Georgia, the lieutenant governor said he considers creation of the eight-member committee to have been the "most important accomplishment" of the special session.

It could bring about "several million dollars worth of economy," Vandiver added.

The gorilla and chimpanzee are among the few mammals which cannot swim.

Tribute to Workers

Members of Stewart Avenue Methodist Church will pay tribute to Watson Roper and Misses Nadine and Orene Copper at the church's 11 a.m. service Sunday.

Roper has handled all mimeographing for the church for several years and the Misses Cooper handle the secretarial work and financial records.

Religious Films

The Christian Youth Fellowship of West End Christian Church will sponsor an outdoor showing of three films at 8:15 p.m. Sunday. The films are "Major Religions," "The Twenty-Third Psalm," and "Hen Hops."

Boulder Crest Series

The Rev. Charles E. Vickery of Atlanta will preach in revival services at Boulder Crest Baptist Church Sunday through July 26. Services will be held at 8 p.m. every night.

The public is invited.

Young People's Outing

The young people of Red Oak Christian Church have scheduled an all-day outing Saturday at Ida Cason Gardens, Chipley. They will be accompanied by the Rev. Richard P. Randall, church pastor.

A daily vacation Bible school currently in session at Red Oak Church is being led by Miss Joan Dandle of Lynchburg, Va., and George Blau III of the Christian College of Georgia, Athens.

Macon Pastor Speaks

Dr. C. DeWitt Matthews, pastor of Vineville Baptist Church, Macon, will preach at the 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services at Second Ponce de Leon Baptist Church Sunday and July 24.

Dr. C. D. Matthews

The church pastor, Dr. Monroe F. Swilley Jr., is in Europe. He returns to his pulpit July 31.

Wesley Board Chief

H. L. Eskew has been elected chairman of the official board of Wesley Memorial Methodist Church.

The Rev. Elliott Lindblad has been named minister of music.

Theological Students Take Emory Course

By LAURA BARRE

More than 2,500 men and women who feel called to the Methodist ministry but are unable to attend a theology school are enrolled in Emory University's "seminary by remote control."

The correspondence school, established when Emory University moved to Atlanta in 1915, offers a four-year course of study which enables a student to meet academic requirements for local elders orders.

The school, one of two such theological correspondence schools in the country, serves the entire eastern half of the United States. The other school, at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, serves the western states.

Dr. Arva C. Floyd of Emory's Candler School of Theology is director of the correspondence school. Sixteen professors in the theology school compose the faculty.

The course of study is set up by a committee of the General Conference of the Methodist Church. It is the approved course for all theological correspondence school students in this country, and is revised every four years.

Each student is expected to "complete a year's work in a year's time," Dr. Floyd said, but if, for valid reasons, he cannot keep up, he may take as long as eight years to finish his course. No student may be enrolled longer than eight years.

Dr. Floyd said most of the students fall into one of two groups—either young men 20-28 years old who for financial or family reasons cannot attend seminary, or men 35-55 years old who have been engaged in business for several years before they feel called to the ministry.

In general, the men in the second group are ordained as approved supply pastors. This makes them subject to the bishop's appointments, but not full-fledged members of the annual conference.

The students often have college degrees, but a degree is not required for admission to the correspondence school. It is, however, usually required for full conference membership, Dr. Floyd said.

Students usually serve in pastorates while they are enrolled in the correspondence school. Two Atlanta ministers, the Rev. Hubert White and the Rev. Gilbert Steadham, are among those currently enrolled.

Dr. Floyd said that while formal theological school training is far preferable as a means of qualifying for the ministry, the correspondence school turns out some very well prepared clergymen.

Methodists Sending 16 To Ind. Meet

Sixteen North Georgia Methodist leaders will serve as delegates to the third National Methodist Town and Country Conference, Bloomington, Ind., July 22-25.

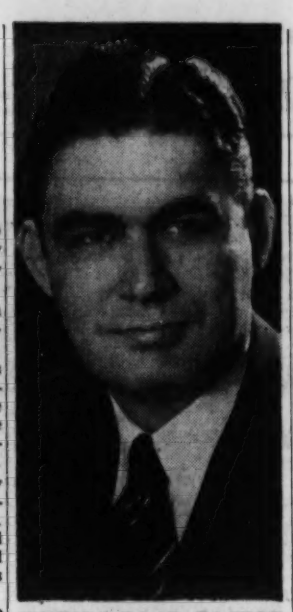

Dr. E. D. C. Brewer

Dr. Earl D. C. Brewer of the Candler School of Theology, Emory University, is chairman of a committee to direct the study course for the conference.

They are the Rev. J. Walker Chidsey, West Point; the Rev. and Mrs. Delma Hagood, Dalton; Miss Hazel Langley and Miss Virginia Courtney, Carrollton; the Rev. Comer L. Brownlow, Hogansville; the Rev. R. L. Taylor, Fayetteville; the Rev. Wesley Thomas, Devereux; Ryan Seawright, Toccoa; the Rev. William D. Webb, West Point; Wesley Stephens, Cave Spring; the Rev. P. V. Hall, Waleska; the Rev. Marcus Martin, Dacula; the Rev. A. Jack Waldrep, Blairsville; the Rev. Peter Manning, Atlanta, and the Rev. H. Dan Rice, Hampton.

More than 2,000 ministers, students and church lay leaders are expected to participate.

WIEUCA ROAD PASTOR
Dr. J. T. Ford

Ford Assumes Post Sunday

Dr. J. T. Ford will assume his duties Sunday as pastor of Wieuca Road Baptist Church.

He comes from the First Baptist Church of Birmingham, Ala. He is 35.

Dr. Ford is a graduate of Union University, Jackson, Tenn., and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky. He holds a doctor of divinity degree from Howard University, Birmingham.

He served pastorates in Huntsville, Ala., and Paducah, Ky., before going to Birmingham.

He is married and has three sons.

Dr. Ford will be the first regular pastor of Wieuca Road Church, which is meeting temporarily in the R. L. Hope School.

The church has purchased a lot at the corner of Old Ivy and North Stratford roads, NW, where a $35,000 pastorium will be constructed in the near future.

The United States acquired the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 from France at a price estimated at four cents an acre including initial cash payment, payment of claims and interest.

W. A. Jones Named 2nd Patrol Chief

W. A. (Deacon) Jones, veteran member of the State Patrol, has been named deputy director of the State Department of Public Safety.

His elevation was one of a series of changes listed in tentative orders by Col. W. C. (Peck) Dominy, director of public safety. Jones will have the rank of lieutenant colonel. He fills a vacancy caused by the resignation two years ago by E. S. Burke.

Capt. Cecil Underwood, head of the district office at Waycross, has been named commander of the uniformed division in the tentative orders. Underwood, given the rank of major, succeeds Jones.

Lt. H. C. Langston of the Athens division was promoted to the rank of captain and placed in charge of the Waycross office. Lt. H. C. Willis was promoted to assistant division commander at Thomaston.

Capt. R. V. Richards, a member of the patrol since it was organized in 1937, will direct in-service training, beginning with a training school for troopers July 17 at the University of Georgia.

Capt. Paul Smith, veteran with the State Patrol, replaces Richards as head of the accident reporting bureau. Smith has been with the Atlanta division of the patrol.

Rev. Tate in Revival

The Rev. John B. Tate, pastor of St. Mark Methodist Church, will preach in a series of revival services at the Powder Springs Methodist Church, Powder Spring, Sunday through Saturday, July 23. Services will be held at 8 o'clock nightly.

The public is invited.

Lutheran Delegates

Seven Atlanta Lutheran leaders will attend a school for home missionaries July 18-22 at Lenoir Rhyne College, Hickory, N.C.

They are the Rev. R. Paul Counts, Dr. and Mrs. J. Russell Crouse, the Rev. and Mrs. Paul J. Renz and the Rev. and Mrs. Karl F. Suhr.

Two-Gun Cecil Beats Himself to the Draw

HOUSTON, Tex., July 15 (AP)—Two-gun Cecil Ray Wade, 15, was practicing quick on the draw last night with .22 caliber revolvers in front of a mirror.

Soon he was whipping the guns from his hip holsters in a split second.

Then he got a little faster than thin and shot himself in the right hip.

"I knew the guns were loaded," the lad said plaintively, "but I didn't intend to pull the trigger."

He was treated at a hospital for a flesh wound and sent home.

New Building Start Due Next Week

Construction is scheduled to start next week on the new Fulton County Federal Savings & Loan Assn. building near Five Points.

Contract for the 10-story marble, granite and glass structure has been awarded to the J. A. Jones Construction Co. of Atlanta, William M. Scurry, association president, announced.

The new building, to have frontages on Edgewood avenue and Pryor and Decatur streets, NE, will cost in excess of $2,000,000. It was designed by Abreu & Robinson, Atlanta architects.

Main property was purchased by the savings association from Ben J. Massell Enterprises about 15 months ago. Demolishing of old buildings and site clearing have just been completed.

The building will front approximately 80 feet on Edgewood, 182 feet on Pryor and 75 feet on Decatur. It will be opposite Haverty's and the Ten Pryor Street Building and diagonally across from the Trust Company of Georgia. The building will have an interior floor area of some 150,000 square feet.

First-floor area at the Edgewood and Pryor corner will house the association, which now occupies a building at 26 Pryor St., NE. Remaining ground-floor space will be leased to shops and offices.

CD Course On Health Slated Here

Atlanta has been named as site of the first federal-state Civil Defense Course for public health workers, July 18-23, according to Dr. Theodore J. Bauer, chief of the U.S. Health Service's communicable disease center.

Sponsored by the Georgia Department of Health and the U.S. Public Health Service, the program, to be held in the Red Cross Building, 848 Peachtree St., NW, will deal largely with health problems connected with civil defense.

Subjects covered will include the public health hazards of radiological, biological and chemical warfare agents, public health problems in mass evacuations and mental health aspects of disasters.

Thirty-five key professional public health officials and 15 guests representing local and national civil defense will attend the courses, which will be handled by Dr. T. F. Sellers, state civil defense-health services chairman.

Dr. Bauer, the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center and the local offices of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will be responsible for the Public Health Service's portion of the program.

The course series is scheduled to be reproduced for the benefit of local health departments by the State Public Health Department. The first reproduction is planned for September.

Contracts Let On 2 Fulton School Units

Contracts for construction of a new Fulton County elementary school building and for an addition to an existing structure were formally awarded Friday to low bidders.

Supt. Paul D. West, W. L. Robinson, president of the Fulton County Board of Education, and Norman Aaron, assistant superintendent for construction and maintenance, awarded the bids at 3 p.m.

The contracts went to Abco Builders, Inc., low bidders at $306,946 on the Josephine Wells School to be built in Hapeville, and to Jones Jiroud & Co., low bidders at $155,914 on the three-room addition to Sandtown Elementary School.

West also announced the school board would receive bids for two more new school buildings in August. Bids will be received Aug. 2 on the Kathleen Mitchell Elementary School at College Park, and on Aug. 16 for the new Milton Elementary School at Alpharetta.

Both the new buildings will contain 24 rooms.

Honoring Ministers

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Park Street Methodist Church will honor ministers of the church with a reception following the church's evening service Sunday.

All members of the congregation are invited to attend.

The ministers to be honored include the Rev. Peter Manning, the Rev. D. C. Starnes and the Rev. Jack Alber.

Model Sees Self WhereverSheGoes

By YOLANDE GWIN

Looking at a pretty girl once is natural. To look twice is expected. To look three times usually brings that "haven't-I-seen-you-somewhere-before?" line.

"I usually answer yes, because I've seen myself in so many places," said the silver-blonde New Yorker.

"I still get somewhat of a start when I'm flipping through a magazine and see myself staring out from the pages, or look up in a crowded New York bus and see myself in an ad. But I love it."

The tall—five feet, seven and a half inches—model wears her short hair slicked back and camouflaged as long with a close-fitting bun. She says she is too fat now and must "trim down" before her fall modeling begins. She weighs 112.

CLASSIC FEATURES

Her classic features make her a perfect model for cosmetic modeling as well as for various types of hair styling and hats.

"I have found that modeling makeup is better when the hair is simple, so that the makeup is the outstanding feature," said Mrs. Harden.

Although she likes cosmetic modeling best, the New Yorker has modeled clothes for Dior and Schiaparelli in Paris.

"The French designers will drive miles to have photographs made of their clothes and will stop for a two-hour lunch regardless of how the job is going. The two-hour lunch is a ritual and the work comes second.

"Then models spend hours in a beauty parlor having their hair styled for a picture before driving into the country to model. Once we went to an airport where the wind wrecked our hairdos and we had to have them fixed again."

The model, whose husband, Dan Harden, takes the part of Kenneth Gibson in the Municipal Theater Under-the-Stars show of "Call Me Madam," appears on TV between day-long modeling jobs. She also dances in a night club.

"I'm taking my vacation with my husband during the show circuit and then we are going to visit his people in Tennessee," she said.

OTHER INTERESTS

"Oh, I have plenty of time for interests other than dancing and modeling. In between work, I sew. I make all my husband's dress shirts and tuxedo collars. I make some of my clothes too. We made a lot of our furniture, it's all modern, for our apartment in Central Park in New York."

Should a girl toy with the idea of a modeling career?

"Certainly," she said. "It not only gives you self-confidence in dressing and beautifying yourself, but it also gives you the satisfaction of knowing that maybe you help other people make the most of what they have.

"But you have to love trying new tricks, of modeling fur coats and bathing suits in off seasons. It's just like any other job, you've got to love it to make a success."

Short Cotton Gloves Jeweled for Evening

Come hot summer days, and the short white cotton glove is the only kind one can bear to wear.

For evening parties, when you really need something a little dressier than a plain cotton glove, I have seen some adorable little white cotton shorties with a jeweled band at the wrist that looks exactly like a diamond or pearl bracelet.

FALL FORECAST

Roman Numerals Fashions

By MARY GRAY ANDERSON
Constitution Fashion Editor

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 15—Anthony Blotta is putting lines that count into his fall clothes. His silhouettes are fashioned after the Roman numerals "I," "V" and "X."

The Roman I shapes in straight and slender in suits and dresses that are no wider at the hem than at the shoulders. The Roman V is found mainly in dresses with deep "V" necklines back and front, and a repeat of the V in front skirt seams. The points of the V at the waist are accented with little buttons.

Roman X is a little harder to spot, but is expressed in long, narrow tunic dresses and suits or fitted long coats that have exactly the same width at shoulders and hem.

Blotta is also making fashion for the smart sports-car set with his "Jaguar" costume. It is a stole and dress costume. The stole wraps you like a blanket and is a short jacket with long front tails. It has a big, high collar and is done in hairy wool bold plaids. The lining is of the one-piece dress fabric.

Those who can't afford mink, might possibly afford Blotta's mink-filled wool coat. It is the next best thing. A very plush-looking fabric, but there are no obvious long hairs.

GREY SILK LACE

Davidow, the master of tweed suits, does practically every suit with a coat to match—short, long, or three-quarter length.

Mainly the suits are fitted and belted with the jacket short. New among this plaid and flecked tweeds are silk tweed suits. Although his suits are mostly casual, this fabric gives them a new elegance that will easily fit into late-day plans.

Scotland's clan plaids are shown en masse. Outstanding in these is a Norfolk-type box jacket suit. Shirts are slim, accordion pleated, box pleated and invertedly pleated.

For a surprise in his fall line, Davidow has patio or squaw dresses from Arizona. These two-piece costumes come in a variety of gay colors in desert suede, georgette or riptide cotton. All are heavily decorated with gold, silver or copper metallic braid and soutache.

The theme song of Nettie Rosenstein's fall collection is "The Suave Silhouette." Everything is thinned down. Even if a silhouette has a fullness it is tied in tack by a back sash. This very thing happens to many of her evening coats.

But actually the silhouette refers to her suits and dresses. They are sleek and outlining, yet not constraining. The belt should be left off, although she always supplies it for those who just can't be without it.

Nettie Rosenstein has created smart, sheer wool dresses that are tempered to all-round wear. The more handsome are in sheer silk and worsted shadow checks. A clever treatment in one of these gives a double-breasted effect to the skirt through buttons, but the bodice is unadorned.

BROCADES, METAL TRIM

Her formal gowns are of luscious silks, some brocades with metal thread, satins, re-embroidered laces and shimmering sequins. Her prettiest new color is French lilac.

Each of these coats, whether loose or fitted, has a dressmaking technique, and made of softest imported fleece and flecked wool.

Miss Andrews Is Bride of Mr. Williams

Miss Shirley Andrews ascended the aisle of the Peachtree Road Methodist Church with her father, Ernest W. Andrews, last evening to become the bride of Frederick Brown Williams, son of Coleman O. Williams and the late Mrs. Williams of Columbia, S. C.

The Rev. Claude M. Haynes and the Rev. N. P. Manning Sr. officiated at the service which was followed by a reception given in the great hall of the church by the bride's parents.

The bride was attended by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. J. B. Richardson of Columbia, S.C. Her bridesmaids were Mrs. Clark Johnson of Greenville, S. C.; Miss Maxine Sullivan of Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. Don Monroe of Birmingham; Miss Lorraine North and Miss Mary Rector of Atlanta, and Miss Janet Webster of Hamden, Connecticut.

Col. C. O. Williams Jr., U.S. Air Force, was best man for his brother, and serving as groomsmen were Don Monroe of Birmingham, George Lippert, Julian Cotter, Jack Rast, J. B. Richardson, all of Columbia, S. C., and L. A. Cobb of Atlanta.

J. R. Lawhons To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lawhon will celebrate their 50 years of married life today at their home at 1177 Avon Ave., SW.

The pair met in the summer of 1904 on a hay ride, and were married one year later. They have two daughters, five sons and eight grandchildren, all of whom are living.

Their children are Mrs. O. F. Bell of Atlanta; Mrs. R. C. Curry of Columbia, S.C.; James L., Reuben R. and Jack F. Lawhon, all of Atlanta; J. C. Lawhon of Orlando, and Fred L. Lawhon of Dallas, Tex.

Mr. Lawhon was in the mule and livestock business in Atlanta for 55 years, having retired in 1952. He now spends much time with his flowers, his shrubbery and his real estate holdings.

Numerous Atlantans Vacation at Sea Island

The last half of July will find numerous Atlantans vacationing at Sea Island. Leaving today for the resort are Mr. and Mrs. McCary Ballard and their small daughters, Julie and Helen, and Mr. and Mrs. James Starr and their young sons, Jimmy and Jake. They have taken one of the Cloister cottages for the duration of their visit.

Leaving today also for Sea Island are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allison and their children, Robert, Mimi and David, who have taken a house on the beach for two weeks.

They will be accompanied by Mrs. Allison's mother, Mrs. Luise Sims, and Mr. Allison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Allison of Washington, D.C., will join them there for a week. The second week Mr. and Mrs. Allison will have as their guests Dr. and Mrs. John Akin and their children, Lynn and Randy, of Atlanta.

Next weekend Mrs. Sims' other daughter, Mrs. Cone Maddox Jr., and Mr. Maddox will go to Sea Island to be guests at the Cloister for several days.

MR. AND MRS. W. E. STORM and their young daughters, Babs and Vicki, had just returned from a 10-day visit to Wrightsville Beach, N.C., when Babs took off again.

On Thursday she accompanied her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Henry Robinson, to New York for her first visit. She will be the guest for several weeks of her good friend, Judy Block, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Block of Larchmont, while Mrs. Robinson visits her sister, Mrs. A. W. Eckert of Spring Lake, N.J.

Mr. and Mrs. Block and Judy will go to Ponte Vedra for a vacation in August, and Babs will accompany them as far as Atlanta.

DR. AND MRS. WALDO E. FLOYD of Statesboro are receiving congratulations on two new granddaughters this week. On Sunday a daughter, Susan Lee, was born to Dr. and Mrs. Waldo E. Floyd Jr., and on Wednesday a daughter was born to Dr. and Mrs. Sam Tillman. Mrs. Tillman, the former Virginia Lee Floyd, has named her daughter Laura Lavinia for her mother.

Both babies were born at Georgia Baptist Hospital, where their mothers are sharing a room.

WHEN THE FINAL CURTAIN rings down on "Call Me Madam" this evening at the Municipal Theater, members of the rollicking cast will change quickly from grease paint to casual clothes. For Robert Clark is planning an informal after-theater party at his home at 3161 Maple Dr., NE, for the cast.

Three of the number will be special guests of honor, for they have birthdays within a few days. They include Bill Pierson, who was "Frank" in "Showboat" last week and is one of the amusing congressmen in "Call Me Madam;" Dan Harden, who takes the role of "Kenneth Gibson" this week, and Ernest McChesney, who is "Cosmo Constantine" in "Call Me Madam." Bill was born July 16, Dan on July 15 and Ernest on July 22.

Sharing honors with the trio will be those in the cast who are leaving Atlanta after this week's production, and Maurice Seltzer who heads the Municipal Theater. Though Mr. Seltzer's birthday fell last week and was duly observed at a party, the cast thinks it appropriate to repeat the celebration and ring him in on the cutting of the birthday cake too.

Garden Club Party

New Arrival

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Mann Jr. announce the birth of a son, Joel Frank, on July 12. Mrs. Mann is the former Frances Puckett of Cartersville.

Bode Baby

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bode announce the birth of a son, Robert James, at Crawford Long Hospital. Mrs. Bode and her son have returned to their home at 2498 Montview Dr. N. W.

Breedlove Baby

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Breedlove announce the birth of a son, Harold Lee, on July 12 at Crawford Long Hospital.

DAILY GUIDE — This would be an excellent day to just take off for loafing. No matter where you are, just stop, slow down, quiet down.

Don't plan any big project, or expect too much if you are determined to push through important matters.

You might just as well relax for a few hours, and indeed consider slowing down to a trot for the next few days.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, CANCER! It hasn't been exactly dull around you, has it?

This month is right in tine with what has been going on for some time, but you can hope for a smoother life soon when several new cycles begin.

Right now you need to clear up any unsolved problems which have come up in the past.

Tips, Maps Tell Where They're Biting

FREE

AT YOUR LOCAL FISHING SUPPLY STORE

The demand for reprints of the Sunday articles and maps on fishing and where they are bitin' by Constitution Outdoor Editor Bill Allen has been so great they have now been compiled into a handy tabloid edition which can be yours for the asking.

Twelve detailed maps show the "hot spots" for bass, crappie, bream, muskie, trout and panfish. The cover shows where the lakes are located in Georgia. Maps of lakes inside include: Burton, Clark Hill Reservoir, Chatuge, Blackshear, Nottely, Sinclair, Jackson, Blue Ridge, Tugalo, Yonah, Bartlett's Ferry, Goat Rock, and Allatoona.

Abducted, Polly Parrot Just Whistles Up Police

At least that's what Polly did.

Polly, a wolf-whistling grey African parrot, was stolen Tuesday from the porch of a home at 206 Ponce de Leon Ave., NE.

Polly's owner, Hugh Karsner, a flower shop operator, appealed to police for help in locating the pet which he got from his father 30 years ago.

Friday, however, Lt. I. A. Thomas and Det. J. L. Carney were riding along Warren Street, NE, when they overheard a shrill "wolf whistle."

Remembering the bird's habit of calling to passersby, the officers stopped the car and began looking around. The whistle was repeated. They eventually spotted Polly sitting in her cage on the front porch of a home, whistling for all he was worth.

Detectives said two teen-agers were subpoenaed to municipal court at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday, there to whistle up an excuse that will satisfy the judge as to why Polly was abducted.

Psychology Lecture

Mrs. Rose Mae Ashby will give a free public lecture on "Concrete Thinking for Success and Health" at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel.

'Red' Carpet For Touring U.S. Farmers

MOSCOW, July 15 (AP)—Twelve farm representatives from Iowa and other American states arrived in Moscow tonight for a month's tour of the Soviet Union and to give the Russians some advice on growing corn and hogs.

The Americans, headed by Dr. W. V. Lambert, dean of agriculture at the University of Nebraska, was greeted at Moscow airport by A. I. Bovin, deputy minister of agriculture, and nine other Russians.

Bovin said Russians had "heard much and have much admiration for the great agricultural achievements of the United States" and hoped to learn much from the delegation. He said the Americans were most welcome and he hoped a similar Soviet agricultural delegation that is visiting in the United States will get a like welcome.

10,000-Volt Shock Slams Atlantan Against Wall; in Serious Condition

An Atlanta electrician Friday afternoon survived a jarring, 10,000-volt shock which threw him violently against a wall, DeKalb police said.

The victim, Hugo Bondy of 2851 Roseland Dr., NE, was listed in serious condition at St. Joseph's Infirmary. Ptl. C. F. Glosson said Bondy was working on a control panel at the new WAGA-TV booth off Clifton Rd., NE, when he touched a hot line.

A fellow workman, Bill Rae, said he saw the victim thrown against the wall. Rae said Bondy owed his life to the fact that he touched the line with only one hand.

Atlanta Suburbs Canvassed for New Directory

A house-to-house canvass has been begun in Fulton and DeKalb Counties and all suburban communities near Atlanta to gather information for a new edition of the Atlanta suburban directory.

S. H. Patterson, superintendent in charge of the canvass, said accuracy of the new edition depends on the cooperation of all householders and business houses in the area.

If a canvasser calls at a house when nobody is at home, he leaves a yellow questionnaire. Patterson has asked householders to fill in the form and mail it to the directory office, or to phone the office and give the requested information.

The project has the support of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, which maintains a library of directories from other cities across the nation.

FORD, 1955
THE MAN WE WANT
NOW drives a nice '49 thru '53 automobile, on which he may still owe a small balance. He has a fairly good credit rating and likes to trade cars every 2 to 3 yrs. He likes to trade cars with a dealer that can assure him good service. He has shopped around and hasn't found the proposition that suits him.

THIS man can make the trade of a lifetime with this organization on a 1955 Ford.

Audit Lists Firm's Fees At $16,500

Thrasher Reports Pay for 2 Cases

The Atlanta law firm of Frazier and Murphy received $16,500 from the State of Georgia for legal services during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1955, a state audit showed Friday.

The firm includes B. D. Murphy, chief of staff for both Gov. Griffin and former Gov. Herman Talmadge.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher's annual audit of the Law Department revealed that Frazier and Murphy got $10,000 for representing the state in opposing an attempt by Horace T. Ward, a Negro, to get into the University of Georgia law school.

INSURANCE CASES

The firm also received $6,500 for representing Insurance Commissioner Zach Cravey in cases against the Bankers Life and Casualty Co.

John Sammons Bell, chairman of the Georgia Democratic Executive Committee, drew $1,000. The audit said the fee was for research into the insurance code.

The audit also showed that Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook received $6,000 for membership on 25 state boards at $240 per board.

Among the list of boards were these: Council to Investigate Incapacity of Comptroller General or State Treasurer; Council to Investigate Suspension of Revenue Commissioner, and the Vocational Trade School Building Authority.

IDLE FOR YEARS

The first two of those boards, created by 1937 acts, apparently have had no meetings for years. The laws say they were created to function in case any of the named state officials become incapacitated or insane.

While one official recalled that the Vocational Trade School Building Authority "may have met once or twice" in 1951, it has not met since.

The Legislature in 1953 authorized payment of $240 annually to constitutional officers for each board membership.

Thrasher, who also is a member of the vocational school authority, said he turned down his payment for membership on that board although the attorney general certified him for payment.

State School Supt. M. D. Collins said he also is an ex-officio member of that authority but had forgotten about it until Cook reminded him and asked him why he had not asked for pay. Collins said he subsequently applied for payment.

The Law Department audit showed that the department spent $234,368 during the 1954-55 fiscal year, an increase of $35,555 over the previous year.

Mrs. Manning, Darien Author, Dies; Rites Today

DARIEN, July 15—Mrs. William A. Manning, the former Mrs. A. A. DeLoach of Atlanta, died Friday morning at her home here.

Mrs. Manning, a writer, was the author of numerous articles contributed to magazines and newspapers throughout the nation. One of her books, "The Mocking Bird's Breed," was published in 1918.

Mrs. Manning was born in Atlanta at the site where the old Georgia Power Company building now stands on Marietta street. She had lived in Darien for the past 25 years.

She was a member of the Colonial Dames and the DAR.

Graveside services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in Westview Cemetery. The Rev. John R. Richardson will officiate.

Survivors include her husband; a sister, Mrs. J. A. Crowe of Atlanta, and several nieces and nephews.

Tech Engineers Largest in Dixie, Third in Nation

Georgia Tech is the largest engineering college in the South and the third largest in the nation, according to a recent survey by the U.S. Office of Education.

The survey, based on 1954 enrollment in 218 engineering colleges, showed Tech had the largest school of industrial engineering in the country with 432 full-time students.

In other fields of engineering, Tech is second in aeronautical, third in chemical and mechanical and fourth in electrical.

440,000 Salk Shots Added For Schools

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Another boost for the polio vaccination program—the third in a week—was given today with announcement by the Public Health Service of the release of 440,000 additional shots of vaccine.

The newly released vaccine, produced by the Pitman-Moore Co. of Zionsville, Ind., brought to 2,998,000 shots the amount released since revised testing and production standards were adopted on May 26.

Prior to that, approximately 9,000,000 shots had been made available for use since the beginning of the vaccination program April 12.

Public Health Service spokesmen said the newly released vaccine, like most of the previous allotments, would go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for its free two-shot program of vaccinating first and second-graders.
